ALLRED WOULD OUTLAW RACE BETTING

GOVERNOR CONDEMNS PROPOSALS TO SELL LIQUOR BY DRINK

SECOND MESSAGE TO LEGISLATURE URGES NUMBER OF REFORMS

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Gov. James V. Allred called on the legislature today to tighten liquor law enforcement and to kill pari-mutuel wagering on horse racing.

His second message to the general session of the legislature, long expected, brought no immediate reaction, although bills to put his recommendations into effect previously had been introduced.

In the senate, one of the governor's campaign speeches, declaring for only a "reasonable" tax on oil and other natural resources and no levy which would place Texas at a disadvantage with other states' was read.

Two senators, E. M. Davis of Brownwood and Will D. Pace of Tyler, the former of whom had the governor's campaign speech read, expressed apprehension over bills proposing various increases in oil taxes.

In connection with his recommendation for stricter liquor control, the governor declared against sale by the drink of hard liquor and segregation of beer and liquor dispensing establishments. He suggested the advocates of drink sales of liquor seek a constitutional amendment authorizing it.

He attributed a "mania for gambling" in Texas to legalization of horse race betting, said the state had been overrun by undesirables, and also asked for action against bookies.

Both houses worked slowly, receiving many more bills and resolutions, including proposals to substitute gas for the electric chair in executions, establish a civil service system for all state employes and liberalize the old age pension law.

Committee hearings on scores of bills were planned for the afternoon.

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Governor James V. Allred today condemned proposals to permit hard liquor sales by the drink and earnestly appealed for a vote in both houses of the legislature on a bill to outlaw horse race betting.

In his second message to the lawmakers, the governor also recommended changes in the liquor law to strengthen enforcement, prohibition of dog race betting and an effective statute against bookmaking. He urged passage of a bill to abolish the department of agriculture and transfer its duties to A. and M. college.

Allred suggested that advocates of local option on the by-the-drink sales of whiskey and gin should seek to submit a constitutional amendment, not attempt to attain their end through a bill.

"Many, if not most of those who

European Storms Claim 52 Lives Over Wide Area

LONDON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Storms raging across Europe from the North Sea to Gibraltar claimed a toll of 52 lives at sea today.

Thirty men were believed lost aboard the French trawler Lorette and 16 on the British trawler Amethyst, both of which finished distress signals. Hope was abandoned that either ship could remain afloat.

The crew of four on the tug Toxteth was reported drowned in the Mersey river, near Liverpool, when the craft capsized.

Lloyds reported the Dutch steamer Jonge Jacobus sinking off the Portuguese coast. Her crew was said to have taken to lifeboats.

Reports from Lisbon said a cyclonic storm—regarded by meteorologists as the worst to strike Portugal in a half century—tore a Portuguese destroyer from her anchorage in the Tagus river.

The steamer Cubango sent calls for aid, reporting she was helplessly adrift off Tagus Bar with a broken rudden. A Lisbon pilot boat sent an SOS and the British steamer Terneuzen reported she was in a "desperate" position "high and dry" on Setubal bar. Twenty-four members of the crew were reported safe.

NEIL GIVES VIVID DESCRIPTION FLOOD OVER LOUISVILLE

PEOPLE FISH FOR FOOD IN HEART BEAUTIFUL BLUE-GRASS DERBY TOWN

By EDWARD J. NEIL

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 28.—(AP)—On the main street of Louisville, in the heart of the Blue Grass' beautiful derby town, people were fishing—from second story windows for food with 20 foot poles, baskets tied to the ends of them.

It was the wierdest sight I've ever seen, the heart of Louisville under fifteen feet of water, bright sunlight streaming warmly down on a fantastic world of eddying muddy water with houses, factories, hotels, warehouses, growing up out of this strange surface.

There were stores filled with mud and yet 20 feet away, people were starving. There was nothing but a vast world of water and still people were choking with thirst. You had to see it to believe it.

We started out from a pontoon platform at 18th Street and Broadway in the good ship "Port Huron," a coast guard launch from the Great Lakes, towing a big life boat manned by stevedores from New York, to get a shipment of bread and milk for the

HUMBLE POSTS AN ADVANCE IN PRICE OF OIL THURSDAY

OTHER MAJOR PURCHASING COMPANIES ARE EXPECTED TO FOLLOW ADVANCE

HOUSTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—An average oil price advance of 12 cents a barrel, posted by the Humble Oil and Refining company, went into effect today.

The company, largest producing and oil purchasing company in Texas, announced an increase to $1.27 a barrel for East Texas crude, upon which other fields and grades of oil are based.

Oil men here predicted other large purchasing companies would meet the advance, which would mean about $126,000 daily or $45,990,000 annually to Texas producers.

The hike fell five cents short of a 17-cent advance posted by the continental and barnsdall companies in Oklahoma January 4. Some sources believed those companies would lower their postings to meet the Humble schedules. Dan Moran, Continental president, declined to comment, however.

The advance came during a Texas legislative session at which higher oil taxes had been suggested.

GREATEST NAVAL MASS PLANE HOP STARTS THURSDAY

TWELVE NEW GIANT PLANES ON FLIGHT SAN DIEGO TO HONOLULU

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The greatest mass naval transoceanic single hop air flight officially got under way for Honolulu at 8:35 o'clock this morning, the navy air station announced.

The twelve new giant patrol planes rendezvoused 10,000 feet in the air above Point Loma, peninsular headland off San Diego.

It required an hour and 38 minutes for the big ships to get into formation and commence their flight after the first one took off from the naval air station waters at 6:57 o'clock.

One after another they leisurely took to the air and circled about until the twelfth got off the water at 7:56 a. m.

Then Lieut. Commander W. H. McDade signaled to his four score officers and men to take formation at the elevation of 10,000 feet.

Considerable time was required to get the big craft, first in units of three, then in squadron formation of twelve at this two mile elevation.

Finally the doughty little flying commander signalled to proceed to sea.

Down at the naval air station the signal time was recorded "zero eight three five," marking the official departure on the 2553 mile hop to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii at 8:35 a. m. Pacific Standard time.

This was the longest sustained flight of a squadron of seaplanes ever attempted.

HER HOME WASHED AWAY—SHE WEEPS BITTERLY

Mrs. Lillian Cale weeps bitterly as she hears news that her home on Wheeling Island, Wheeling, W. Va., has been washed away. Her two children, one on either side, try to comfort her. Scenes like this are being enacted on all sides in the Ohio valley where unprecedented floods still hold sway.

ARMY ENGINEERS SEEKING TO AVOID MISSISSIPPI FLOOD

READY TO EVACUATE LOW-LANDS BUT STRENGTHENING LEVEE SYSTEM

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Optimistic flood crest forecasts eased Mississippi valley tension today even while water edged higher on the levees which engineers labored to strengthen.

Meteorologist F. W. Brist expressed belief the Mississippi will crest at Memphis at 48 feet, five feet lower than the estimate of Lieut. Col. Eugene Reybold, district engineer.

Military authorities advanced plans for mass evacuation of the river lowlands, should such a step become necessary, and troops patrolled the East Arkansas flood zone.

"We think the probable crest stage, barring further heavy rains, will be: Memphis, 48 feet by Feb. 5 to 7; Helena, Ark., 57.5 to 58 feet, Feb. 5 to 9," Brist said.

There is a variation of from one to two feet in the flood gauges of the weather bureau and the engineers.

The death toll from weather and floods in Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee reached 30. Upwards of 200,000 were homeless and more than 2,500,000 acres were under water.

In Washington General Malin Craig termed the possibility of any widespread evacuation remote.

Army engineers along the levees will sound a warning before any removal is ordered.

Families will be carried to safety only from localized danger

OHIO RIVER HAS STARTED RECEDING IN UPPER REACHES

DEATH AND DAMAGE GROWS AND WATERS ROLL ON TOWARD MISSISSIPPI

By The Associated Press.

The flooded Ohio river, struggling like a captive serpent of fabulous strength, sought escape against weakening levees today on its cresting descent to the Mississippi.

The known dead stood at 293, the homeless passed the million mark, an additional 500,000 were endangered, and property loss was estimated at more than $400,000,000.

Along the 1,000-mile trail of desolation the slowly receding waters lapped at empty houses in empty towns.

The cost of rehabilitation, now becoming of paramount interest in northern Ohio river valley communities where the worst apparently has passed, drew estimates running into billions. Officials said the average cost for cleaning and drying out a single flooded home was $250.

Fresh dangers cropped out by the dozens as the crest of the flood swung south.

At Paducah, Ky., the next point of crisis, Red Cross officials hurried to evacuate thousands of reluctant inhabitants in advance of the oncoming flood peak.

Col. C. J. Rhodes, war department civil engineer, warned as a 61-foot crest within the next 45 hours.

Women and Children Flee Cairo.

Below, at Cairo, Ill., only men remained in the island city to bolster the 60-foot seawell against an expected four-foot rise in the river. Eight thousand—mostly women and children and the aged had already fled.

At Mound City, Ill., a back levee collapsed routing 650 men, 50 women and 175 CCC boys to higher ground.

On the Mississippi river itself, now beginning to stir uneasily under the vanguard lash of the Ohio's flood load, the Melwood levee was threatened with collapse along its 392-mile boundary on the Arkansas side.

Hart-hit Louisville, with the highest death roll in the disaster area, had its hopes darkened again today as rain began to fall.

Seek to Save Tiptonville.

In Tennessee, levee workers battled desperately to save the dike above Tiptonville.

High water that passed Cairo when army engineers dynamited the Birds Point-New Madrid "fuse plug", to relieve pressure of the beleaguered city, rose steadily in the 131,000-acre spillway basin today. Hundreds who were driven from their lowland homes huddled in concentration

Crash Of Auto Into Motionless Train Kills Four

LOCKNEY Jan. 28.—(AP) The crash of an automobile into a motionless Fort Worth and Denver City freight train in west Lockney killed four persons and injured a fifth critically last night.

Dead were A. J. Weatherly, 60, his son, Garland Weatherly, 31; Betty, 7-year-old daughter of Garland Weatherly, and J. N. Parsons, about 50, a school teacher. All lived at Parnell, Hall county.

Mrs. Garland Weatherly, about 20, suffered internal injuries and fractures of both legs. Physicians gave her little chance of recovery.

The Weatherlys, Hall county pioneers, and Parsons were returning home from Arizona.

Trainmen had halted the train to open a gate leading to a Santa Fe crossing when the crash occurred.

DIRTY, DEBRIS-CHOKED FLOOD WATER IN PRISON CELL BLOCKS HOLD SECRET OF PRISON RIOT

Search Dump For Missing Bones Of Boston Child

BOSTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A police squad dug today through a dump not far from Harvard Stadium, searching for missing bones of five-year-old Chester Harris of Cambridge, found dead in the tragic conclusion of 10 weeks search.

Other police went to East Cambridge jail to question a 27-year old laborer held for an alleged attack on a young boy close to the Harris child's home. Another man who told police several weeks ago the boy's body would be found in a factory near the dump, also was listed for questioning.

Discovery of the lad's skull, ribs, pelvis bone and the bone of the upper right arm ended a hunt that began last Oct. 31, when the blonde youngster ran off to play.

Edward McNamara, 13, of Cambridge, found Chester's skull while playing in a billboard enclosed lot. With it was a piece of burlap large enough to cover the body and radio wire used to wrap the body in the burlap.

Medical Examiner J. Brickley said the body apparently had been buried in a shallow grave which recent rains had washed out. The skull had been fractured. Police found other bones buried in a space three feet long and two feet wide.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 28.—(AP)—A final inspection of Kentucky's flooded and riot-torn state prison here today failed to disclose any bodies of the dozen or more convicts reported to have been killed during the three days of disorders that preceded abandonment of the prison.

Prison records showed seven men were unaccounted for. They were believed by officials to have escaped.

"It was a miracle," Gov. A. B. Chandler remarked as the last foot of the debris-strewn prison had been inspected. "How we managed not to have lost hundreds of lives during the fighting and rioting among the prisoners is a mystery to me."

Two of the 3,906 prisoners evacuated by boat and truck during the height of the flood were under treatment in Lexington for bullet wounds inflicted by guards. The arm of one of them was amputated today.

Of the seven men listed as missing, two were believed already in custody at Ashland, Ky.

Governor Chandler and prison officials had expected to find about ten bodies in the two main cell houses where 1,000 fear-crazed men fought for three days and nights. Many of the prisoners showed evidence of having been beaten.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Dirty, debris choked flood water in two cell blocks held today the grim secret of the number of maddened prisoners who died during three days and three nights of frenzied rioting in the

Influenza Not Epidemic Over State Of Texas

DALLAS, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Reports from ten cities indicated today influenza, measles and pneumonia were widespread in Texas but not of epidemic proportions.

Dr. H. E. Duncan, Dallas county health officer, reported probably the most serious situation. He called on the County Medical Society to aid him in treating the sick, saying numerous calls had been received which his limited staff could not answer promptly.

Dr. E. L. Jones of Longview said influenza and pneumonia were prevalent but not in alarming proportions. San Antonio reported six leading hospitals were not taking additional cases of the two diseases.

In Austin, Corsicana, Borger, Lubbock, Texarkana, Wichita Falls and Paris officers said the diseases were scarcely more widespread than normal.

Excessive rain in Texarkana brought a typhoid warning to residents of a twenty-block area. One rural school was closed in Wichita Falls because of measles.

ANNOUNCE PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT CHINA'S CIVIL WAR CRISIS

REBELLION OF NORTHWEST COMMUNISTS AND CHANG'S FORCES ENDED

NANKING, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Military headquarters of the central government announced today the peaceful settlement of China's prolonged civil war crisis.

The rebellion of the northwest communist armies and Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's former Manchurian forces, which started last Dec. 12 with the kidnaping of Premier Chiang Kai-Shek at the Shensi provincial capital of Sianfu was reported completely liquidated.

Military authorities were confident the agreement with representatives of Gen. Yang Hu-Chen, commander of the mutinous forces since Marshal Chang gave himself up, would be carried out without difficulty.

Yang and the other rebellious chieftains, who were reported to have demanded war on Japan as the price of their surrender, would withdraw their forces from southern Shensi.

They will take up outposts in the communist influenced territories of Eastern Kansu, Ninghsia and Northwest Shensi provinces permitting re-establishment of the central government's authority at Sianfu.

Freezing Weather As Far South As Dallas Predicted

DALLAS, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The United States weather bureau forecast today another cold snap for North Texas which will probably bring freezing temperature as far south as Dallas.

The bureau issued livestock warnings for the Panhandle and said there would be a hard freeze in the extreme North portion of the state tomorrow.

Direct Route to Appease Hunger Of Baby Taken

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Flood refugees from Huntington took the most direct route to stop a baby's sobs of hunger.

Their evacuation train halted far out in the country. A cow grazed placidly in a field.

Nurses didn't hesitate. One took a milk bottle and went to work—the baby's hunger was satisfied.

ANTI-UNIONISTS GROW BELLIGERENT IN DETROIT SECTOR

AUTO UNION ORGANIZERS INJURED AND ONE WAS REPORTED TO BE MISSING

DETROIT, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Gov. Frank Murphy reiterated at Lansing today the state's intention to prevent bloodshed or violence in connection with General Motors strikes but told a delegation from the Flint Alliance it was impossible to answer their demand that he "guarantee all workers full protection in going to and coming from work."

S. A. Rasbach of Flint, a Buick worker, headed the group which an alliance mass meeting at Flint Tuesday instructed to demand a "yes" on "no" answer from the executive. The alliance was organized to express anti-strike sentiment.

The governor pointed out that since arrival of national guardsmen at Flint following riots outside a stricker-held Fisher Body Company plant, there had been no rioting or bloodshed in Flint.

He advised Rasbach not to attempt to inflame workers on his return to Flint.

Asserting "we must exhaust every avenue of peace," the governor told the group, "there is not enough power in General Motors, the Flint Alliance or the

GREATEST FLOOD IN LOUISVILLE HISTORY LEAVES MANY DEAD

OHIO FLOOD WATERS TURNED TOWARD MISSISSIPPI ON THURSDAY

By EDWARD J. NEIL

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The greatest flood in the history of the Ohio Valley turned its force today toward the mighty Mississippi, leaving here a record of 57.1 feet, over two hundred known dead, and thousands gravely ill of diseases attributable to the raging waters.

There was a possibility it will be weeks before the full death toll is known, if it is to be known.

Property damage in all probability will amount to $100,000,000.

How great the loss of life could be was indicated last night in a resume of the situation given the nation by Mayor Neville Miller

LOCAL RED CROSS RELIEF FUND CONTINUES TO GROW AND FIVE TIMES ORIGINAL QUOTA NEARS

Chairman J. N. Garitty of the Navarro county chapter of the American Red Cross, was enthusiastic Thursday as the result of the response being made to appeals for funds to relieve suffering in the flood areas of the Ohio river valley. Without a personal campaign the original quota of $290, which was later requested to be raised at least five times, was nearing the desired mark, with many who have signified a willingness and desire to contribute not yet listed. Many others who should contribute it was stated, had not done so.

Cash and checks continued Thursday to pour into the Daily Sun office, the First National Bank and the State National Bank, which were designated as depositories for the Red Cross relief fund. It was confidently expected that the assigned quota would be reached soon, but it was felt that there is little doubt that additional funds will be needed especialy if the Mississippi river goes on the rampage that is anticipated, when it will be necessary to evacuate approximately half a million additional people and furnish temporary homes and feed them for many weeks.

Up until noon Thursday a total of $1,394.79 had been reported from the three places where subscriptions were being received. At noon Wednesday a total of $989.80 had been reported. This added to Thursday's report makes a total of $1,394.79. The approximate quota was placed at $1,500.

TEXAS RALLIES TO RELIEF OF FLOOD VICTIMS QUICKLY

MONEY, CLOTHING, BOATS AND MAN-POWER OFFERED TO SUFFERERS

DALLAS, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Texas rallied today to the relief of the flooded Mississippi and Ohio basins with money, clothing, boats and offers of man-power if further evacuation is necessary.

Contributions poured in to the Red Cross while other agencies arranged to provide every possible aid.

National guardsmen, highway patrolmen and rangers were ready for duty in Arkansas if needed. The adjutant general's department reported 80 per cent of the Texas National guard's 8,617 officers and men could be mobilized within six hours.

All available coast guard power boats and 40 coast guardsmen were en route to the flood district by train. Army reserve officers were asked to report to local headquarters in case they were needed.

Two hundred 20-gallon boilers were sent to Columbus, Ohio, from the eighth corps area general depot at Fort Sam Houston

REV. H. J. ELLIS TO DELIVER FINAL SERMON AS RECTOR

The Rev. H. J. Ellis, rector of St. John's Episcopal church of Corsicana for the past nineteen years, has resigned, effective Feb. 1, and he will deliver his farewell sermon as rector of the local parish on Sunday morning, Jan. 31. This will officially mark the termination of a long, useful and profitable ministry to the congregation of this church and there are none but who regret the retirement of this good and popular rector.

On the occasion of his farewell sermon as many members of St. John's as possible are urged to be present, and it is presumed they will desire to take part in this service. A general invitation to other friends of the Rev. Mr. Ellis and Mrs. Ellis is extended to this service also. There will be no formal program on this occasion, just the final sermon of a long-faithful minister to his flock upon his voluntary retirement from the rectorship.

It is a matter for congratulation to Corsicana and her citizenship that the Rev. and Mrs. Ellis will continue to make Corsicana their home, having purchased a residence at the corner of Fifth avenue and Thirtieth street which they will occupy and where they will be at home to their friends after February 1st.

BELIEVE MISSOURI PHYSICIAN VICTIM GANGSTER KIDNAPERS

WEST PLAINS, Mo., Jan. 28.—(AP)—State highway patrolmen today were working on the theory that Dr. J. C. B. Davis, 66, Willow Springs physician and democratic leader who disappeared from his office Tuesday afternoon, was kidnaped by bandits who wanted him to treat a sick companion and that he had been taken to some hideout in the Ozarks.

The patrolmen have learned an automobile answering the description of the one in which Dr. Davis left his office with a stranger, approached a farmhouse some distance from Highway 80 near Rover yesterday. The car was stopped about 75 yards from the farm house and one of the men asked directions. The farmer became suspicious and notified officers.

The same automobile stopped at a filling station near Thayer and Shelt Taylor, the attendant, said two men were in the front seat and he saw a third huddled in the rear seat. He reported the incident, asserting he believed the man in the back seat of the automobile was bound and gagged.

Officers do not believe Dr. Davis expected to treat a wounded man as he left both his surgical cases in his automobile.

Sick and Convalescent.

Several officers and deputies at the courthouse were able to resume their duties Thursday following sieges of influenza. Those returning Thursday included Sheriff Rufus Pevehouse, chief Deputy Sheriff Walter Hayes, Deputy Sheriff J. M. Westbrook, Deputy District Clerk L. E. Hervey, and Judge W. T. McFadden.

J. J. Mixon, barber at the Palace barber shop, 107 South Main street, suffered a stroke about 12:30 Wednesday afternoon, and was reported to be critically ill at home today. The stroke occurred at the shop, and after medical aid was summoned, Mr. Mixon was removed to the family residence.

Mrs. J. S. Harllee has been ill for some time at her home on West Park avenue with pneumonia.

Miss Lizzie Harllee, chief operator of the Southeastern-Bell Telephone Company, has been ill with influenza for the past several days.

Reading And Writing

By John Selby

Some sort of curse hangs over the heads of people who try to write biographies of great actresses and great singers. The biographies seldom come off. Statesmen, sailors, explorers, even clergymen sometimes provide good reading when embalmed in words. Actresses, no.

It would be silly to pretend that Hector Bolitho has made Marie Tempest into a good story. As a matter of fact, Mr. Bolitho apologizes through several pages for his product, and explains some of the reasons it is so. Miss Tempest, it seems, refused to co-operate. She would talk charmingly with him on almost any subject but herself. She had forgotten, or refused to remember, most of her life. She had not kept letters, and other written records were few. Hence poor Mr. Bolitho's plight.

He solves it just as most of us would. He writes a book meagerly supplied with detail, and generously padded with "impressions." He even calls the chapters "episodes," and gains a certain swing by treating them that way. And he does one thing more which has vitiated other works of the sort in the past—he puts his chief character on a pedestal. True, he mentions tantrums here and there. But one effect upon this saddened reader was a strong desire to hit this "radiant" creature with a hammer to see whether she would say "ouch."

So much adulation on the part of Mr. Bolitho should not have been necessary. Miss Tempest had the good fortune to have gone on the stage in spite of a personal protest from Gladstone. She fell into glamor with ease. She is full of the most outrageous crotchets; for example, her thousands of games of patience, which she employs to clear her mind. She has the reputation of being a somewhat difficult star to play with, and there are plenty of stories to be had, most likely, about that matter.

She also has met "everybody," or as she perhaps would phrase it, everybody has been presented to her. A certain amount of friction must have been generated, and the heat from this would have improved the book a lot. As it is, I find myself remembering such details as Miss Tempest's suggestion, while in Sweden, that the party run over to Geneva for the afternoon.

Where You Bound, Sailors?

Windows in homes pop up, heads bob out, both men and women. "Hey, where you bound, sailors?"

People run out on their second story porches, just above the waterline.

"Got anything to eat? Any cigarettes? When are they coming for us? Hey sailors, take us along!"

But we're supply boats, on a mission for milk that thousands of babies and children need desperately in the refugee camps on the Highlands back from the flood; bread for the battered, hungry grownups who are rationed to the bone.

A few more blocks ahead is our goal, a railroad siding at the end of the deep water at 30th and Garland. There are five box cars, standing up to their axles in muddy flood, but water hasn't touched the precious cargo packed in right up to the roofs. The sailors tell me the food has just come in from Chicago.

Strangest Sight of All.

But just a hundred feet or so short of the siding, is the strangest sight of all. On both sides of the street are grocery stores, drug stores, fruit stores, their windows smashed in by the weight of the waters.

In the windows of the food stores are piled edibles of all kinds. Much of the stuff has floated away. And from the second story porches of houses clustered around, men gaze hungrily into the water, holding long poles with baskets tied to the ends, spearing as you would net for fish anything with an eatable look that drifts by.

We start back. It's against regulations, but how are you going to get by those drawn, bewhiskered sufferers? We toss them loaves of bread, promise we'll be sending relief right back.

Bed For Food

Everyone along the way pleads for food, milk and the sight of it high behind us brings screaming pleas across the water.

"Please...Give us some milk... Give us some bread..."

But there's no more stopping.

On one side now is a great automobile showroom, and in the window are half a dozen brand new cars, just their tops showing.

Now we're back where we started, Broadway and 18th and trucks are waiting.

We tie up to the top of a sedan, sunk just a few feet off.

The trucks are filled rapidly with food everyone needs so desperately. Everyone helps. And a Louisville boy with a casual drawl, busy piling up loaves of bread, remarks easily:

"You're from New York, I guess. Can tell by your Brooklyn stutter. Guess you never saw anything like this in the big town, Eh?"

LOCAL RESIDENTS CONTACT RELATIVES FLOODED DISTRICT

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kittinger, 412 West Fifth avenue, learned yesterday of the safety of two of Mr. Kittinger's sisters, one residing in Paducah, Ky., and the other in Louisville, Ky., which towns suffered the greatest damages from the flood.

Since the towns were inundated last week, Mr. and Mrs. Kinninger have been trying to contact his sisters, but until Wednesday had been unable to hear from them. Tuesday night Mrs. Kittinger phoned radio station WREC, Memphis Commercial Appeal, and within a minute after finishing the call, heard her appeal over the station to which their radio was tuned. The appeal for word was broadcast several times during the night, and last night they received word that their relatives were safe.

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Terrell and infant boy, of Paducah had moved safely to Murray, Ky., about 50 miles away, and Miss Katherine Kittinger of Louisville was reported safe from the floodwaters.

Mr. and Mrs. Kittinger expect Mrs. Terrell and son to visit them within the near future, until rehabilitation of their home is completed.

SHIPOWNERS AWAIT RESPONSE TO OFFER STRIKE SETLEMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.(AP)—Shipowners awaited union response today to a proposal they hoped would solve jurisdictional issues delaying further peace moves in the 91-day Pacific Coast maritime strike.

The seven striking unions, meantime called an afternoon meeting here to discuss the "progress" of efforts to end the costly walkout of nearly 40,000 marine workers.

The jurisdictional matters, involving mainly coastwise ships, have to do with where a seaman's work ends and that of a longshoreman begins.

A committee of the coastal operators suggested that the regional national labor relations board act as a referee in the matter. The international longshoremen's association had proposed that the American Federation of Labor settle the issue.

WAR THREATS MAY HOLD WOOL PRCE AT HIGH FIGURE

ALBUQUERQUE, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A strong wool market for "many months" stimulated by war threats was foreseen here today by C. J. Fawcett, general manager of the National Wool Marketing corporation.

Addressing the fnial day's session of the National Wool Growers' convention, Fawcett said that heavy demand in 1935 and 1936 consumed the domestic surplus, while foreign markets were strengthened by the need of wool for military uniforms.

"It is estimated 20 pounds of clean wool are required to outfit a soldier for a year of fighting in the front lines, and there are little or no recoverable products from this class of material," he said.

"Judging from the manner in which every European nation is arming itself, much wool probably will be required for some years to come for this purpose."

The strong demand coupled with a somewhat less than normal supply, he said, "has set the stage for many months for a substantial rise in wool values."

The morning session brought a strong swing in favor of San Angelo, Tex., as the 1938 convention city. Advised that the executive committee tentatively had decided on Salt Lake City, the Texas delegates launched a heavy campaign to bring the meeting to San Angelo. El Paso members, who had sought the convention for their city, swung their support to the other Texas sheep center.

Elliott Barker, New Mexico state game warden, urged adoption of a uniform coyote bounty law in all western grazing states to avoid the practice of "bootlegging" coyote scalps into bounty states from states which do not pay for killing of the predators.

PREPARATIONS FOR HOME WORK AMONG NEGROES GOING ON

Preparations for intensive home demonstration club work among the negro residents of the county are well under way in spite of bad weather, according to Jessie Shelton, county agent.

A letter was prepared recently for some 500 or more negro club members in the county on the necessity of preparing for spring gardens. A copy of the letter, containing plenty of directions and inspiration, follows:

Dear Clubmember:

Here I come again knocking at your garden gate. Have you plowed and thoroughly prepared your garden soil? Oh- yes, the weather has been cold and wet, but are youready to do a good job as soon as the weather will permit by having seed on hand and all required tools ready for use?

Don't spend any time making excuses, use it to make a garden go. Excuses will not fill an empty stomach, but a good garden will.

January is a good time to plant: Peas, onion plants and sets, cabbage, tomatoes. If you can not plant in the garden because of the cold wet weather, your hot bed is there, use it. That's why we demonstrated it in 1936—to make 1937 gardens earlier and better.

Now is the time to get ahead of the drought. Plant early.

Try at least one of these recommended varieties from each group this year:

Green snap beans, Refugee; cabbage, Stein's Flat Dutch; Green English Peas, Bliss Everbearing, Early Alaska; tomatoes, Marglobe, Pritchard, Stone, Red Cherry; Beets, Detroit Dark Red; squash, Yellow crookneck.

Are you ready to go gardeners? Take it away.

Yours truly,

Mrs. Jessie L. Shelton, negro home demonstration agent, Navarro county.

FEAR ENCROACHING RECREATIONAL AREAS TO INJURE GRAZING

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Expressed fears that the encroachment of recreational areas on livestock grazing land might work a serious hardship on producers brought a note of apprehension into the National Wool Growers' association convention here today.

Questioned from the floor by delegates, W. L. Dutton, U. S. forest service chief of range management, admitted there was "no absolute guarantee" that range land in any national forest could be maintained in the face of recreational demands.

His statement was in reply to a protest from W. P. Wing of San Francisco, secretary of the California Wool Growers' association, who said range allotments were being reduced in the vicinity of Yosemite and Sequoia national parks.

While denying that there had been reductions in the area Wing mentioned, Dutton said there had been several instances, such as in the Mt. Hood region of Washington, where demands of recreation seekers had forced curtailment of grazing.

Future administration of forest grazing lands, Dutton said, probably will be based largely on the principle of encouraging "home units" for smaller operators.

Home Frost Editor Destroyed By Fire; Loss Was Heavy

FROST, Jan. 28.—(Spl.)—The home of J. E. Laney, editor of the Frost Enterprise was destroyed by fire, last Friday night with a loss estimated at $2,500 with no insurance.

The origin of the fire was due to a loose gas connection in the bathroom from a lighted stove.

In addition the loss of household effects about $60 in currency was also reported. The fire department was handicapped due to frozen roads and hampered by the further fact the fire siren was also frozen, and unable to sound an alarm. But few residents of the town were aware of the fire until next morning, as a result.

This is the second fire for Frost for the new year bringing the total loss up to many thousands of dollars with but little insurance. The other occurred about ten days ago being the large gin plant of W. A. Simms, entailing a loss estimated at over $15,000 with only $2,500 insurance on the machinery.

AUTO STRIKE

C. I. O. (committee for industrial organization supporting the strikes) to force me to leave my position. I know of plans recently in Flint to manufacture riots to get the militia involved. I consider such plans unworthy."

DETROIT, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Three organizers for the United Automobile Workers of America who encountered belligerent anti-strike crowds in Bay City and Saginaw were in a Flint hospital today recovering from injuries.

They were members of a group of five union organizers who set out from Flint yesterday to carry on membership campaigns among General Motors employes in Bay City and Saginaw.

One, John Mayo of Pittsburgh, disappeared during a clash with a hostile crowd at Saginaw during which police took the union men to police headquarters for safe keeping.

Mayo reached union headquarters at Detroit today, explaining he stepped into a drug store when a man attempted to strike him, then went by taxicab to Lansing and returned to Detroit from there. Robert Travis, U. A. W. A. organizer at Flint, had expressed fears for Mayo's safety.

The climax of the anti-union demonstrations came when a taxicab in which four of the organizers were returning to Flint was wrecked near Flint. Deputy Sheriff William Bloom of Genesee county said the taxicab was wrecked "deliberately" by another motorcar. All four men were injured but only three required hospital treatment.

At Detroit, the U. A. W. A. withdrew its pickets from the office entrance to the Cadillac Motor Car Co. plant where police clashed Monday morning with strikers attempting to prevent office workers from entering the plant. Walter Reuther, U. A. W. A. organizer, said the union had decided in an all-night meeting to desist from picketing the administration building.

Picketing of the employment office and principal factory gates was continued, however. Reuther said the union was determined that factory workers should not enter the plant while the strike is in progress.

Seeking More Power.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Demands of government agencies for more power to investigate strike conditions carried phases of the General Motors deadlock today to Capitol Hill.

Secretary Perkins asked quick authorization for the labor department to seek out and make public the cause of strikes, lockouts and other industrial disputes, and to recommend settlements.

Miss Perkins said the proposal, which would give her power to take testimony under oath and subpoena records, was not aimed at the General Motors impasse but "this situation brings it to mind."

The financial position of employers could be studied under her proposal, making possible recommendations on wage increases for employes.

Charged Inciting Violence.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Perkins dispatched a representative to Anderson, Ind., today to investigate charges by the striking United Automobile Workers that the General Motors Corporation had incited violence there.

John Porter, the investigator, will arrive there tomorrow.

The union charged one of its meetings had been broken up and union headquarters raided and wrecked.

Ed Hall, union vice president, filed the charges with Miss Perkins last night.

Miss Perkins said Porter, a labor department attorney, had "no powers" but would ask the cooperation of state and local officials.

Another charge Porter will investigate, she said, was that the corporation required employes returning to work Tuesday to sign "yellow dog" contracts--agreements requiring them to remain out of the union.

MESSAGE

voted for prohibition repeal are opposed to the return of the open saloon in any form," he said. "I have no doubt, however, that other interests in cities, where convictions have been difficult to secure, have conceived the idea that by breaking down enforcement in the first year of experience under the present law we will become discouraged and return to the old system.

Authority Doubted

"There are many others who honestly believe sale by drink should be legalized in any community voting to authorize such sales. Regardless of our individual opinions, many doubt the authority of the legislature to make such provision under the present constitutional amendment prohibiting the 'open saloon.'

"If the legislature should attempt to legalize sale by the drink, even by local option, without doubt a serious legal question would arise and enforcement possibly further imperiled."

Allred blamed legalization of horse race betting for "the unparalleled wave and mania for gambling which has swept over the state."

"Bookie shops, gambling houses, slot and marble machines and almost every form of gambling," he said, "has flagrantly flourished. Even the 'policy racket' has made its appearance. * * *

Undesirables Flock In.

"Undesirables have come to our state race track touts, pickpockets, confidence men. Horses have been doped. Crooked races have been run. Bets have been paid off by bookie shops on races before they were even run.

"Without doubt, race track gambling has had a bad effect upon business. Housewives have spent their allowances, bank clerks and employes have absconded with funds, men who formerly took pride in their credit rating have become dead beats. These are not isolated cases. They are and will continue to be general.

"In all fairness, members of the legislature, I ask you, are we not entitled to a clear cut vote on this proposition? * * *

"I particularly urge that this law not be loaded down with other amendments."

To Improve Enforcement

The governor recommended the following statutory changes to improve liquor law enforcement:

Providing that liquor board cancellations of licenses would remain in effect pending trial of court appeals from such cancellations and placing venue of appeals in this county.

Fixing definite obligations upon local officials both to enforce the law and weed out undesirable applicants for licenses.

Complete segregation of whiskey stores from beer taverns.

Authorizing liquor board agents to make arrests, execute search warrants and issue processes.

Making liquor board membership full-time job, paying each of the three members $5,000 a year.

Doubling license fees to cut down on the number of liquor stores.

Allred recommended consolidation of the state reclamation engineer's department with the board of water engineers and placing of the barber board and the board of cosmetology under the health board.

Proposals To Boost Oil Taxes Debated

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Proposals to tax oil as high as 10 cents a barrel reacted in the senate today.

Sen. E. M. Davis of Brownwood, who resides in a marginal oil district, had one of Governor Allred's campaign speeches of last summer placed in the Journal. In it the governor said he favored a "reasonable increase" in the oil taxation, but not one which would place Texas at a disadvantage in competition with other states and foreign countries.

"I cannot help but view with apprehension the proposals to raise the tax to 10, 12 and 14 cents a barrel," Davis said. "Oil is worth more than all the crops of Texas combined and gives employment to more than a million people."

Several house bills would increase the oil levy from 2 3-4 cents to 10 cents a barrel.

Sen. Will Pace of Tyler concurred with Davis, saying he believed the governor's campaign speech stated the policy of his administration.

"I believe oil can be taxed more," Pace observed, "but I'm fearful we will be placed at a disadvantage with out-of-state competition if we put too great a levy on the producers."

Sen. Claud Westerfeld of Dallas took an opposite view.

"They say somebody's going to tax oil," he thundered. "Sure, we'll tax oil and 10 cents a barrel won't miss it much. Why, the oil companies of this state are paying no taxes. The people who drive the automobiles and trucks are paying it. They're paying the equivalent of $1.75 cents a barrel in tax."

Rep. Alf Roark of Saratoga, chairman of the house revenue and taxation committee, announced hearings on the proposed oil levy increases would begin the night of Feb. 8.

Propose Gas Chamber

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The lethal gas chamber would be substituted for the electric chair in Texas under a bill introduced today by Reps. Arthur Holland of Belton and Cecil T. Rhodes of Hearne.

"The death penalty," the bill said, "should be inflicted in the most humane way possible, and the use of lethal gas in other states has been meeting this end."

This was the third proposal affecting the dath penalty. One would abolish it and another would make it mandatory for kidnapers of children under 15 years old.

OIL PRICE

pany announced today it would meet the 12 cents a barrel increase in the price of Texas crude oil posted by the Humble Oil and Refining Company.

Operating in East Texas, the Bell General Company maintains gathering lines and a trunk distribution system and purchases about 30,000 barrels of crude oil a day. The company has general offices here. Albert Finston is vice-president and general manager.

Independent producing companies expressed gratification but the major companies maintained silence on the increase.

East Texas Company Hikes Price.

DALLAS, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The East Texas Refining Company, largest independent purchaser of crude in the field, announced a 12-cent increase in the price of East Texas crude effective at 7 a. m. today.

The increase boosted the price of East Texas crude oil from $1.15 to $1.27. Officials of the company said they were meeting the Humble increase announced yesterday in Houston.

Other oil purchasers here, the Atlantic Refinning Company, the Sun Oil Company and the Magnolia Petroleum Company, said they were studying the Humble increase but had not yet decided what steps would be taken.

Carter Oil Posts Increase.

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Carter Oil Company announced today an increase of 12 cents a barrel in the price of crude oil.

Carter was the first of the "Big Six" major companies to post an increase and its move was the first to break the deadlock which has existed since Jan. 4 when Continental and Barnsdall put into effect a 17-cent general increase.

The Carter company purchases about 80,000 barrels of crude oil a day in Oklahoma. Like the Humble Oil and Refining Company, which announced last night a 12 cent increase in Texas, the Carter is a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Before the Carter announcement the Bell General Pipeline Company announced it would meet the Humble's increase for Texas crude.

Sun Meets Advance.

DALLAS, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Sun Oil company posted a 12-cent advance for East Texas crude oil effective at 7 a. m. today, raising the price per barrel to $1.27.

Earlier the East Texas Refining company, largest independent purchasers or East Texas oil, posted a similar raise.

Other majors here said they were studying the situation.

Standard Hikes Price.

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Standard Oil Company of Louisiana effective 7 a. m. today increased the price of North Louisiana and Arkansas crude from 12 to 15 cents per barrel. The 15-cent hike was at Rodessa with rest of North Louisiana an increase of 12 cents. Top price of Rodessa crude is now $1.25.

With exception of Smackover, Arkansas crude was hiked 12 cents. Smackover was hiked 15 cents.

Statement by Carl Estes.

LONGVIEW, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Carl Estes, Longview publisher who has been a leader in the fight at Austin for reenactment of state oil proration laws, said today the current price increase came as an indication of faith on the part of purchasing companies that the people will deal fairly with them in matters of legislation and taxation.

His statement was issued from his headquarters here and came from Dallas, where he was in conference with East Texas oil operators.

Estes recalled that at the statewide oil hearing last week, after remarking that leading purchasers had increased their nominations for East Texas oil, he had stood out for a price increase rather than an allowable increase.

He said he took this action on the economic principle that price is the most potent factor in industrial, "conducing as nothing else does to conservation of goods."

Gilliland Meets Advance.

TYLER, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Gilliland Pipeline Company of Gladewater, an independent, posted a price of $1.27 effective at 7 a. m. today for East Texas crude oil, raising its former price 12 cents.

Means Much to Texans.

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Ernest O Thompson, member of the Railroad Commission, said today the increase in the price of crude oil meant an increase of more than $125,000 daily paid Texas operators.

"It means that oil will bring to Texas at least $45,000,000 more in 1937 than it did in 1936," he said.

"We are particularly gratified over the fact our estimates and studies on market demand have been gloriously justified.

"Some people thought we were permitting too much crude to be produced in Texas. Evidently we were not. The price of oil does not increase when too much oil is produced."

LOCAL CONTRIBUTIONS TO RED CROSS RELIEF FUND COMING IN RAPIDLY; MUST RAISE QUOTA

With other Texas cities reporting their Red Cross quotas oversubscribed, Corsicana is still lagging Tuesday but voluntary subscriptions are coming in rapidly and Chairman J. N. Garitty reports that he anticipates no trouble in securing the local quota --that many who have not yet subscribed will do so and that Corsicana will go over the top as usual. However, he urges the need for haste in this important matter and asks that the quota be raised as quickly as possible.

Chairman Garitty received the following telegram late Monday, which verified the appeal that the original quota be doubled and that as much additional money as possible be raised and that there be no delay in the work.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 25.

Jim Nick Garitty, Chairman Navarro County Chapter American Red Cross.

Because relief needs in flooded areas of Ohio and Mississippi valleys are increasing every hour as continued rains send rivers to highest levels in history and with more than four hundred thousand persons driven from their homes, urge you to double your relief fund quota and go as far beyond the doubled figure as possible.

We are contributing Million dollars from national funds. Three hundred Red Cross relief workers now in disaster areas giving immediate emergency relief to flood refugees. Three hundred fifty Red Cross nurses in field engaged in battle against feared epidemic.

Unemployed Man And Little Son Found Shot Death

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 27.—(AP)—James Laroe, unemployed taxi driver, and his three-year-old son, Dan, were found shot to death 100 yards off the Lavernia highway early this morning by deputy sheriffs.

The bodies of the 24-year-old man and his son were found as deputies searched the vicinity after finding an automobile parked on the side of the highway some time earlier.

Both had been shot with a 30-30 caliber rifle. Justice of the Peace O. L. Wiley returned a verdict of murder and suicide.

NEW DENUNCIATIONS FOR VIOLATIONS OF ANTI-NEPOTISM LAW

MORE LIQUOR BILLS INTRODUCED IN SESSION OF TEXAS LEGISLATURE

AUSTIN, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Asserted violations of the anti-nepotism law brought denunciation today in the house of representatives.

Rep. Ben F. Cathey of Quitman charged that despite the law state officials employed relatives of each other and of members of the legislature.

He sought unsuccessfully to have re-printed immediately a report of a previous legislative committee on the practice of hiring relatives. Action was deferred.

More liquor bills were introduced in both houses. One by Senator Weaver Moore of Houston would authorize sales of mixed drinks and another by Rep. Troy E. Kern of Cooper would prohibit advertising of hard liquors.

Liquor control legislation probably will receive more attention soon under the stimulus of a message from Governor James V. Allred on the subject. The governor wants strict enforcement and is opposed to sale by the drink of strong liquor.

The governor said his next message, dealing with liquor control, race horse betting and consolidation of state departments, probably would be delayed several days.

Various house committees, including appropriations, judiciary and labor, began hearings on bills. Work of the session had been delayed pending completion of the committees by Speaker Robert W. Calvert.

Emergency Expenditures.

AUSTIN, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The house appropriations committee recommended today emergency expenditures of approximately $100,000.

One appropriation was for $38,000 to pay expenses of the attorney general's department, including $18,000 for this state's costs in the Texas-New Mexico-Colorado litigation over division of Rio Grande waters.

Other bills would appropriate $11,000 for pink bollworm eradication, $12,000 for Mexican fruit fly control in the lower Rio Grande Valley, $15,000 to the school census division of the Department of Education and approximately $25,000 for the higher salaries voted by the people for six state officers.

San Angelo Red Cross Quota Is Quickly Raised

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 26.—(AP)—This city, caught twice in ten days during September, 1936, by record-breaking floods on the North, Middle and South Concho rivers which caused $5,000,000 damage as they swept through the heart of the city and on down the Colorado, today was nearing 200 per cent of its original Red Cross flood relief quota for the stricken middle west.

The $280 quota on which solicitation began yesterday morning was oversubscribed by $114 last night. Many of those who gave were helped by the Red Cross last fall.

TWO DEPRESSIONS CONFRONT A WORLD SEEKING RECOVERY *

One Concerns Economics; The Other a Personal Responsibility----Blunt Words About The Place of Strong Drink In a New World Order.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Again and again, while travelling in Egypt and other parts of the East where British military men are numerous, I have asked friends, "How can these young officers afford to drink so much every day? I know their salaries are small, and I have seen many a man drink up in an afternoon and an evening the equivalent of his day's income."

Answers have usually been, "Most of these officers have independent incomes; the rest run into debt."

Purely from the economic side, the liquor problem is a heavy burden for civilization to bear. It is an unproductive tax on a man's resources. The best that he gets out of it is a tickling of the appetite, and a temporary glow of feeling. The worst—well, that story is too familiar to retell here. The latest edition of it may be read in other columns of this newspaper.

For booze makes news—bad news; of automobile mishaps ("Alcohol and gas will not mix"); of crimes ranging from embezzlement to murder; of broken homes and blighted lives of the innocent.

On The Front Page.

Informed commentators are opening saying that King Edward would not have lost his throne had he not early chosen for companions a "fast" set, whose hard drinking and other bad habits had become internationally notorious. It was a dissipated man, indifferent to the moral and Christian standards prevailing amidst most of his subjects, who was unable to think clearly when a grave issue arose.

Edward had repudiated the high obligations of kinghood before he surrendered the crown itself. A myriad teachers, around the whole earth, are nowadays repeating to youth the moral lessons inherent in the story which for weeks dominated the front pages of the world's newspapers. The familiar dying words of John B. Gough are recalled, "Young man, keep your record clean."

Apparently, the use of liquor distorts a persons' sense of proportion and of values. That is why only drinkers find the monotonous and banal programmes of the night clubs entertaining; and afford their outrageous charges. In my travels I have often sat through dinners where the other guests had drunk too freely; and the talk grew sillier and sillier, and the most pointless jokes drew loud lauhs. The men thought they were having a good time; what really had occurred was that they had abdicated their powers of discrimination and judgment. More than once those same men, suffering from a "hang-over," have confided to me that they had been fools the night before. Any party that substitutes wine for wit impairs the intellectual integrity of its participants.

Not all who drink become drunkards; but Dr. Mayo is credited with the statement that three out of every ten moderate drinkers become addicts. And society bears few graver or more expensive burdens than the drunkard.

In A Time Of Crisis.

Some serious but somber thinkers sincerely entertain the belief that today civilization is collapsing before our eyes. Certainly it is changing. In the ultimate summing up, it is the individual who will be the determinative factor—his strength and wisdom and freedom and resourcefulness. The great crises of civilization have always been periods of dissipation and drunkenness, especially at the top.

Abstinence from strong drink even though one is of assured self-control, and able to afford the cost, would seem to an intelligent person a reasonable price to pay for fitness to meet the changes that seem just ahead of the world. Surely, the thinking man should be willing to say, "If danger or disaster are coming, I propose that it will find me sober, and unencumbered by any hindrances, and ready to bear a man's part in the struggle."

When I was a cub reporter, older associates assured me that I would have to drink. In a long and varied experience, I have never found an instance where total abstinence was a handicap, and I recall many cases where it was a help. I got my first promotion in journalism because another reporter—a better newspaper man that I—could not be trusted to keep sober in emergencies. Today, the carousing journalist has pretty well disappeared from the scene; there is no room for him in the modern newspaper office.

John Barleycorn's Little Bill.

Probably the toucan has the biggest bill, in proportion to his size, among all birds. But the biggest bill that society pays is for booze. The American Business Men's Research Foundation, of Chicago, reported last September that the grand total of the "legitimate" drink bill of the United States, in the thirty-nine months since the passing of prohibition, had been $7,687,141,577—not including other billions spent for bootleg liquor. Seventeen-and-a-half per cent of the legal booze bill went to the government in taxes.

Of this enormous expenditure, what remains in tangible benefits to the people? Most of the money was kept out of the tills of business; the grocer, the butcher, the milkman, the tailor, the dressmaker, the builder would have had most of that money, had it not gone for drink.

There is a gruesome aspect of the drinking habit that is being heavily accented nowadays by economists and sociologists. Estimates of automobile accidents due to liquor range from twenty-five to sixty per cent. The National Safety Council says that the cost of automobile accidents in 1935 mounted to a total of $402,500,000—nearly half-a-billion dollars. John Barleycorn is an expensive companion.

Is It Worth While?

For milleniums observers of life have been commenting upon this strange phenomenon of the disastrous grip of a single appetite upon a man's character and fortune.

To many readers the most appealing portion of the novel, "Ben Hur," was the regimen of preparation that the noble young Jew and his followers imposed upon themselves that they might be ready to rally to the defense of the Nazarene when the hour of need should strike. That same spirit is to be commended to all noble youth today. Their supreme opportunity is to be prepared for the new world in which they are to live. Therefore, for the sake of themselves; for the sake of fellow men who will need them; for the sake of Country and of God, they should discipline themselves to lay aside every weight—including indulgence in strong drink—that they may be fine and fit for the great tomorrow.

DR. F. P. CULVER MAIN SPEAKER FOR MISSION INSTITUTE

Dr. F. P. Culver, pastor of the First Methodist church in this city for three years and now president of the conference board of missions and conference director of the "Bishops Crusade" now under way in Southern Methodism, was one of the speakers in the annual Corsicana District Missionary institute held at an all-day meeting in the educational building of the First Methodist church Tuesday.

Dr. Culver in his talk explained the purpose of the Crusade that was started in a big missionary rally held in New Orleans in January. One of the objectives is to raise a debt of some $400,000 of the general board of missions; another is to re-kindle the spirit of missions in Methodism.

The speaker explained the debt was incurred by the board of missions during the depression, Southern Methodism having at the start of the depression in 1929 over two hundred missionaries in the foreign field at that time. This force was cut to one hundred as rapidly as possible and since that time the speaker explained Southern Methodism has not placed one single missionary in the field, using all of its funds to maintain the present force and to pay the principal and interest on the debt.

Dr. Culver explained that if the mission debt could be paid that this sum used to pay interest and the debt could be used to start a forwar movement in missions; he stated further that he expected the church to get a spiritual blessing out of the raising of this sum and also a deeper insight into the missionary spirit, saying that Methodism was born in the missionary movement and is pledged to carry out the injunction of Christ to go preach the gospel to all the world

Two of the high points on the program is the banquet April 23rd and the special Missionary day program December 25th. Dr. C. R. Gray, presiding elder, presided at Tuesday's meeting. Other speakers covered various phases of mission work, the ladies served lunch at the noon hour.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS SPRING SEMESTER ENROLLMENT LESS

Corsicana's public schools opened the spring semester of the 1936-37 year Wednesday morning with 3,463 students enrolling, according to figures compiled and announced from the office of Superintendent W. H. Norwood. This year's mid-term enrollment is 277 below last year's opening day mid-term 3,740.

Decrease Shown.

Comparison of the figures show a decrease of 213 in the colored schools and a decrease of 64 in the white schools. A further perusal of the figures indicate decreases in enrollment in all the elementary schools; an increase in the junior high school, and a slight decrease in the senior high school.

The decrease in the elementary schools and increase in the junior high school was accounted for by Superintendent Norwood by the fact that each elementary school sent large numbers of sixth grade pupils into the junior high school while their schools did not admit low first grade pupils to offset the loss.

At the annual mid-term commencement exercises last Friday, the junior high school graduated nearly 60 pupils into the senior high school, and the senior high school graduated 23 pupils.

Enrollment Figures

Today's enrollment, followed by last year's mid-term enrollment figures, and the difference between the two in all the schools follow:

Senior high school today 575; last year, 581; decrease, six.

Junior high school today 517; last year, 449; increase 68.

Sam Houston school, today 491; last year 559, decrease 68.

Robert E. Lee today 258, last year 280, decrease 22.

William B. Travis today 489, last year 500, decrease 11.

David Crockett, today 102, last year 111, decrease nine.

Stephen F. Austin today 105, last year 121, decrease 16.

Total white today 2,537, last year 2,601, decrease 64.

Jackson high (colored) today 719, last year 894; decrease 175.

Washington (colored) today 207, last year 245, decrease 38.

Total colored, today 926, last year 1,139, decrease 213.

Total white and colored today 3,463, last year 3,740, decrease 277.

Students in the junior and senior high schools enrolled and made out their schedules and programs Monday and Tuesday, and the first classes of the new term were run off on schedule today.

Principals of all schools were reported busily engaged today in starting off the new year, but all classes were reported to be running smoothly.

PRESS FREEDOM

There will be much interest, not confined to the newspaper profession, in the bill introduced by Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, to limit the power of courts over the press in matters of news-reporting. There have been important cases recently in which fines and imprisonment were inflicted on editors and reporters for refusing to betray the confidence of those giving them the facts published.

The measure provides that "no reporter connected with any newspaper shall be compelled to disclose the source of any information confidential in nature, except treason, obtained by him for publication in such newspaper."

The right to protect "news sources" is regarded by newspapers as implied in constitutional "freedom of the press." Otherwise it would often be impossible to get and publish news of public value. Injustice, corruption and oppression thrive on secrecy. The justification of the special rights thus claimed by the press is the public service performed by it.

SEAWAY AGAIN

The St. Lawrence Seaway project seems to be looking up again. Washington correspondents say that perhaps the Canadian treaty to finish the remaining stretch between Lake Ontario and Montreal will go through after all.

There has been opposition in both countries, attributed mainly to private power interests. The new channels are acknowledged as feasible, and on the whole as tending to benefit shipping and bring the inland cities of the whole Great Lakes region closer to Europe and our Atlantic seaboard.

Many American vesselmen have not liked the idea, which appeals so strongly to the lake ports, of letting foreign seagoing ships into the Lakes. They fear competition. Private power companies on both sides naturally do not like the prospect of public power developed in large quantities as a by-product of the proposed canal locks, to be sold in competition with private power.

President Roosevelt and Premier King of Canada have both favored the Seaway. There are two new political factors in its favor now. Premier Hepburn of Ontario has withdrawn his opposition, and President Roosevelt has stronger congressional and popular support as a result of the recent election.

Such an improvement would be expected to increase Great Lakes freight tonnage, already by far the greatest of any waterway in the world, and to cheapen freight rates for American exports over a vast area.

SINGER FROM BRAZIL

The Metropolitan Opera Company has engaged a new prima donna. She is Bidu Sayao of Rio de Janeiro. She seems to be of the Lucrezia Bori and Lily Pons type physically, weighing only 120 pounds, and standing five feet one inch "all "without French heels."

Her engagement is notable even before her Metropolitan debut because she is the only native South American opera singer to achieve its stage. Perhaps she will be also the first of a procession of South American artists with whom North Americans may soon become acquainted.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright, 1937, Edgar A. Guest)

GAINS MISSED AND TAKEN

They whisper we have missed the way. Men wise in money ways
Find nothing on our books today which they can truly praise.
They talk of stocks we should have bought; of gains we might have made,
And fools we are by such a thought, by such a balance weighed.
Yet looking back across the year and all the chances lost,
No sign of vain regret appears, the joy was worth the cost.

Men born and trained to calculate at us their heads may shake
We've reckoned not the interest rate and that's a grave mistake;
Too many whims we've gratified; to much of gladness known
Which calmer reason had denied, did I good judgment own;
But after all is said and done, though clear my folly lies,
We might have missed a lot of fun had I been shrewd and wise.

You've seen them who were money mad spend all their days in strife,
But we've invested what we had in many years of life.
We lived and loved from day to day.
We've lived and loved and laughed at play, and it is plain to me,
That if we richar were today no happier could we be;
And though we own no great amount like those who buy and sell,
We've golden memories to recount and splendid tales to tell.

AUSTRIAN FREE SPEECH.

Freedom of speech is about to have a try-out in Austria. It is a long-contemplated project of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg. The Fatherland Front, which is the only legal political organization in Austria, is arranging a series of 10,000 forums to be held throughout the country, at which members of the Front will discuss the government. They may criticize it and suggest ways to improve it, if they wish.

This sounds astonishingly liberal for any section of Europe. The forums which have been developing in the United States have been regarded as possible only in a democracy such as ours or Britain's. Perhaps they may still be so regarded.

The Austrian free speech forums have several strings tied to them. In the first place, they are open only to members of the Fatherland Front who are already pledged to support Austria's independence. This will prevent discussion of union with Germany or any sort of Nazi propaganda, regardless of individual opinions.

Although the government guarantees that no speaker will be prosecuted for anything he says during the forums, it seems pretty obvious that many factors will conspire to keep all speakers from being as critical of the government as some of them may feel In other words, it is far from what Americans would call freedom of speech. But it is a surprising gesture toward that privilege.

EASIER OUSTINGS

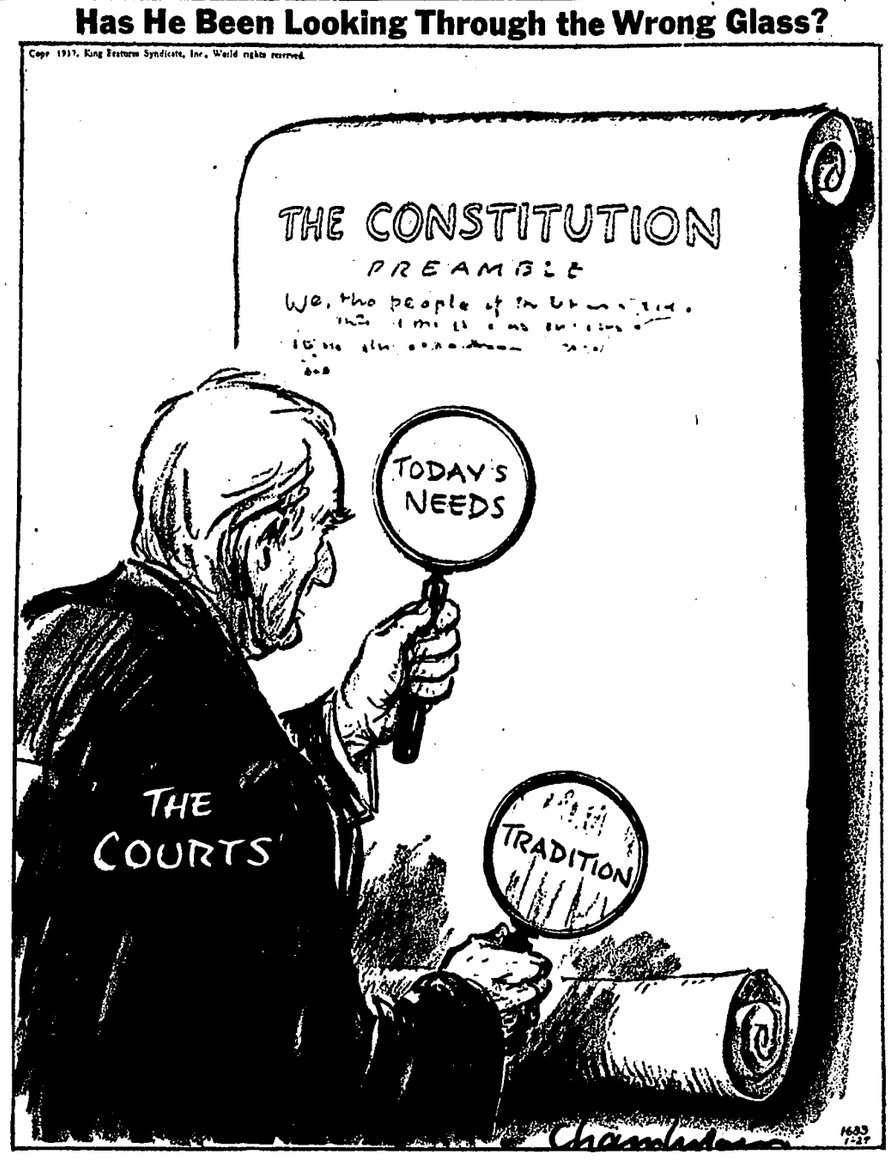

A writer in the New York Times makes a happy suggestion concerning academic freedom. He would give Progressive Regents and Tory Boards of Trustees of educational institutions a dozen peremptory challenges, such as opposing lawyers have in murder trials. Then in a period of 25 years, each group could fire, without warning or justification beyond their own consciences, 12 college presidents or professors, as they wished.

These dismissals would be taken for granted by the bystander-public and consequently would not arouse bitter strife among educators, students and alumni. They might even clear the air enough to give academic freedom a better chance.

Of course, it would be better yet if neither side felt unduly impelled to fire anybody for anything short of obvious incompetence. Or if the popular attitude enforced a sort of "no-third-term" system, whereby people might be dislodged from entrenched positions after a certain length of time, impersonally and with no hard feelings anywhere.

The Duke of Windsor is being Americanized. They say Wally has taught him to drink tomato juice, and he may yet learn to eat his spinach.

Has He Been Looking Through the Wrong Glass?

MEN'S TOY TRAINS

Is playing with toy trains a grown-up sport for children, or a children's sport for grown-up men? There's room for argument about that.

While the argument is going on, consider the case of Leonard M. Blum, a Cleveland lawyer. All his spare time evenings and holidays is spent in his basement, where he has a magnificent railroad system in operation. There are 2,100 feet of track, 43 locomotives, several hundred cars and their full complement of bridges, tunnels, roundhouses, semaphores, and so on. He can operate 12 trains at one time, by remote control from a central board with 50 switches.

He is now planning a program and expansion that will get rid of his wide gauge equipment and provide $5,000 worth of narrow-gauge tracks and trains traveling at shoulder height. That will be more comfortable for the basement transportation magnate, and will give his wife a little room for a laundry tub, and maybe a bit of canning.

Every Saturday is children's day in that railroad empire. The magnate's young sons bring their friends. On other week-day evening's, and Sundays, there's an incredible crush in the basement, from the grown-up lawyers and doctors and business men and preachers and professors crowding in to see the trains run—and if they're good, a chance to run 'em themselves.

And do the children love it? They do. But four-year-old Harry, who demanded a private wind-up train 'or Christmas, turns his back to the whole elaborate outfit, in joyful concentration on his own one-dollar system.

EARTH-SHAKERS

Seismograph stations in various parts of the world the other day reported a severe earthquake, the location of which was not determined. It was nearly as great a shock as the one which occurred in India in May, 1935. and killed 26,000 persons. It was of a magnitude "to shake one-quarter of the world."

Most stations figured its general location as somewhere in Central Asia, thought it might have taken place under the sea to the east. Obviously it did not occur in any well populated region.

Humanity has no control over earthquakes. It can design buildings calculated to withstand certain shocks, but it cannot foretell when or where any severe quake will occur. It is just luck when the affected region is remote from human habitation.

Wouldn't it be smart of mankind, under the circumstances, to leave all the destructive shocks to Nature instead of manufacturing wars which shake more than one-quarter of the world, take millions of human lives and destroy our moral and spiritual standards?

TEXAS EMPLOYERS GRANTED MORE TIME PAY JOBLESS TAX

AUSTIN, Jan. 26.—(Spl.)—Texas employers this week were granted an additional thirty days in which to file their 1936 reports and to pay their first contribution under the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act, Chairman-Director R. B. Anderson announced.

First payments to the commission, under the new order, will be due not later than February 25. The original deadline set by the commission was January 25.

"The Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission granted employers this additional month because of the short time which we have had to explain the duties of the employers under the act, and to assist employers in complying with the provisions of the law," Anderson declared.

"Regulation Four, previously issued by the commission, prescribed penalties for employers who did not pay their first contribution by January 25. This new order, of course, relieves all employers from any penalties until after February 25," Anderson pointed out.

The commission announced that employers who pay their full 1936 contribution by February 25 will receive the maximum credit on their federal tax, since the federal government has extended its deadline for contributions from January 31 to March 31.

"The commission now has field men stationed in Amarillo, Lubbock, El Paso, Abilene, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Brownsville, Wichita Falls, Tyler, Waco, Galveston, Beaumont, Houston, Texarkana, Fort Worth, and Dallas. I wish to urge all employers who have problems in connection with the act to take their problems to the nearest fieldman. All fieldmen may be reached through the chambers of commerce of the towns in which they are stationed," Anderson stated.

CORSICANA TIGERS AND RICHLAND TOP INTERESTING BILL

FOUR-GAME PLAY OPENS AT 5:30 AND CONTINUES THROUGH 8:30

Four basketball games of more than passing interest are scheduled for the Y. M. C. A. court Wednesday evening, it was announced today by C. F. Broughton, physical director. The four-game bill opens at 5:30 and will continue through the 8:30 game.

Topping the schedule is an encounter between the Corsicana high school Tigers and a fast-stepping Richland team. Next comes one between the public schools faculty and the Y. M. C. A. Triangles. Powell high school girls and Kerens high school girls furnish another game, and the other is between the Emhouse high school and Y-Triangles reserves.

Last week the Triangles humiliated the faculty five with a defeat on the junior high school gymnasium, and the losing team has sworn vengeance, and is out for a win tomorrow night. The faculty team is made up of former college and conference stars who are now holding either coaching or teaching positions in the public schools, while the Y team is composed of former Corsicana high school and Navarro county team stars, many of whom have played together for several years. This game is booked for 8:30.

At 7:30 the high school and Richland meet to determine the supremacy of two powerful teams. The high school won the Tenth annual Y boys' invitational, and holds victories over such strong teams as Bardwell, State Home, Trinidad and others. Richland was one of the top-ranking teams in the Y county league. Teams defeated by Richland are Fairfield, Ben Wheeler, Rice and other strong Central Texas contingents.

Emhouse high school and the Y-Triangles reserves meet at 6:30 which should prove a fast encounter.

Powell and Kerens girls meet at 5:30. Both of these teams are entered in the annual Y. M. C. A. girls' invitation tournament, and will be gunning for a win.

WEATHER CAUSES POSTPONEMENT GIRLS BASKETBALL TOURNEY

Rice Resident Wounded; Negro Faces Charges

Ernest Cummings, operator of a market at Rice, is in a serious condition with knife wounds in the chest, back and other portions of his body as a result of an altercation with B. F. Gay, negro, near Rice late Tuesday.

The accused negro surrendered to Sheriff Rufus Pevehouse Tuesday night after the sheriff and Deputy Allen Calloway had gone to Rice to seek him and missed contacting the accused.

A formal charge of assault with intent to murder was lodged against Gay Wednesday morning before Judge B. V. Hatley, justice of the peace of the Rice-Chattfield precinct.

It is understood the Navarro county grand jury planned to inaugurate an investigation into incidents surrounding the trouble during the day.

It was reported at the courthouse Wednesday morning there is considerable ill feeling in the Rice sector against the negro as a result of the trouble.

Striking New Scenes From Stricken Flood Area In Midwest

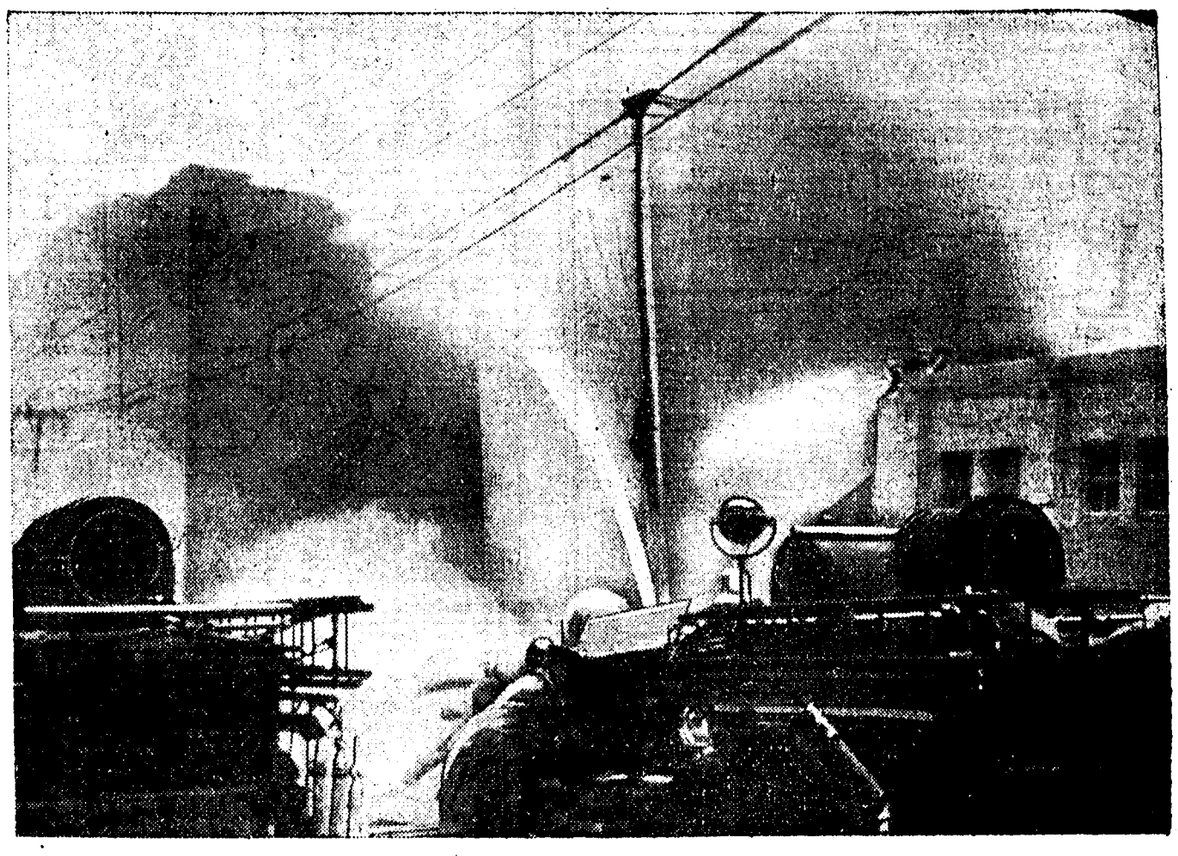

Cincinnati's industrial section, above, suffered terrific losses as raging floodwaters swirled around the city's main power plant and swept through factories and warehouses along the Ohio waterfront. It was feared power would be cut off completely.

This air view shows automobiles marooned on the south bank of the Ohio river from Madison, Ind., when they found the foot of the bridge northward under water and the hamlet beside it deserted before the rising water. The other end of the bridge is blocked too, so the carpet of snow fell too late to prevent the worst flood in Ohio's history, is not likely to bear track for many days to come. (Associated Press Photo)

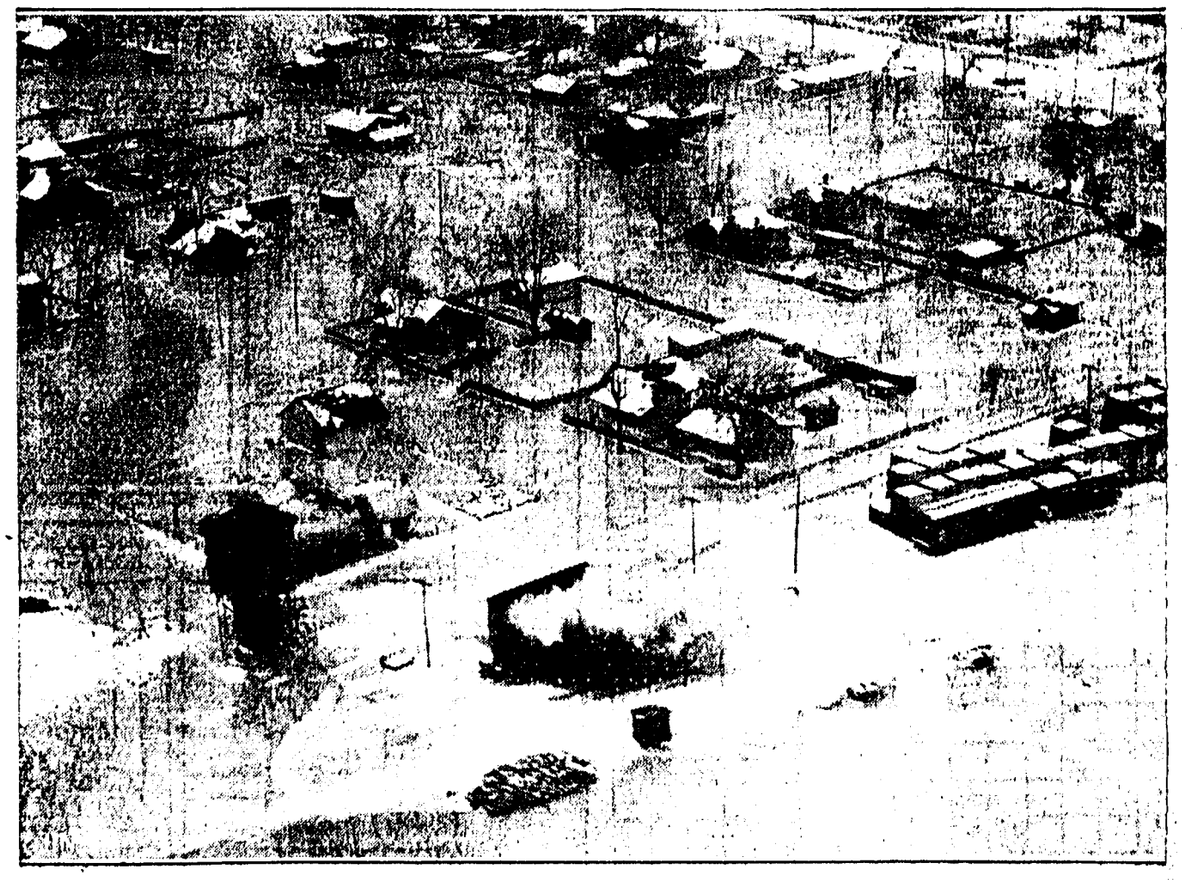

One of the most seriously stricken cities in the southern flood area was Nashville, Tenn., above, where the raging Cumberland river burst its banks and inundated many sections of the city. More than 2,000 families had to be evacuated as rising water threatened their safety.

Cincinnati's weary flood-fighting firemen are shown in this Associated Press photo as they fought with all available apparatus a disastrous fire which swept the industrial district of Cincinnati after oil and gasoline storage tanks exploded and carried fire-capped water and billowing black smoke into the flood-harrassed sections. This scene shows the eight-story Crosley building as flames attacked it.

This remarkable aerial view shows the flooded residential section of Louisville, Ky. The streets are little rivers in themselves and hundreds of homes have been abandoned. This picture was made by a photographer aboard a sky liner of the Transcontinental and Western Airlines, Inc.

How a residential section of Evansville, Ind., looked like to a photographer aboard a sky liner of the Transcontinental and Western Airlines, Inc.—Each little home an island of desolation.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

Miss Forbes tells you the safest and cheapest way to get rid of superfluous hair and warns you away from dangerous depilatories.

The problem of unwanted hair is an easy one to solve. It merely requires a little time now and then, and it need never involve the spending of money. If the unwanted hairs grow in the eyebrows and you are not clever at thinning these yourself, then have someone in a beauty shop do it for you every two or three months. The charge is 50c, usually, so this is not an expensive item. Between times you can keep the worst of the hairs down by plucking them yourself, so the good shape remains.

E. K. Forbes

You need never buy a depilatory; in fact, you never should. A lot of them, we are told by druggists, are made of rat poison—surely not a pleasant thing to put on the skin. Many, too, are dangerous. And surely anything strong enough to dissolve the hairs will begin to eat at the skin if it gets a chance. Wax, which is heated and put on the skin, then cooled and ripped off, certainly takes the hairs out with it. But it is a painful process.

Surely these methods are easier: Pluck out the worst hairs from the eyebrows, of course using tweezers. Use tweezers, too, for long or for dark hairs which grow above the lips or on the chin. Bleach that fine fuzz, though, with peroxide and ammonia and it will retard its growth and finally kill it off. Shave under the arms, using a safety razor. Charming ones, like jewels in little jewel cases, come just for this. Or you can borrow your brother's—when he doesn't know it.

Shave hair from the legs. It grows in again no matter what you use, so you may as well use a razor, which is painless and cheap. There is no such thing as razor stubble, and it won't encourage a heavier growth.

Mrs. M. B.—There are any number of packs for cleansing the pores, and for giving the skin a general toning. They were very much exploded about ten years ago, but the commercial ones made women's skin so dry that they gradually gave up this method of clearing the skin. They appeared to work wonders in a few hours, but the continual use of them was bad for the skin. When it is necessary to clear soil from the pores, one of the best things is oil, or a thin cream, as either will penetrate and dissolve the soil, so all of it may be removed by wiping it off the skin. If you wish a pack, or feel the cleansing is not sufficient, oil the skin again, using plain oil, or a light cream, and follow it by applying a paste made from almond meal and hot water. Just enough water to the dry meal to make it thin enough to spread over the oily skin, and do not rub, just spread it at first, then mix the paste and the oil together by gentle movements with the finger tips. This cleanses the skin by getting down into the pores, although it does not dry the skin, because of the oil that has become part of the mixture. If you very much need an astringent, add three drops of tincture of benzoin to the hot water that was used in forming the almond paste. After the cleansing wash off the pack, rinse enough, using warm water, and there will be need then for more oil to offset the drying effect of the meal.

New Yok Cotton Higher

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened firm, 2 to 9 points advance on higher Liverpool cables and active trade and foerign buying. March 12.79; May 12.65; July 12.50; Oct. 12.09; Dec. 12.00; Jan. 11.98

Trading interest continued to broaden and trading was more general than for some time as the market went above yesterday's resistance points to carry March up to 12.80 the highest price for the life of that contract.

Continued concern over the outlook for flood damage in the Mississippi valley stimulated the demand. Although active profit taking and local selling appeared at the new highs offerings were quickly absorbed and prices after the first half hour showed net gains of 5 to 9 points. May, which had rallied to 12.65, was selling at 12.63.

Liverpool was firm owing to the flood news on this side as well as because of a tight statistical position of American cotton in that market.

The advance extended somewhat further to net gains of 10-13 points on additional general buying including some for Liverpool and Far Eastern account. After the close of European markets demand tapered off slightly and prices reacted partly from their highs. March eased from 12.85 to 12.83 and May fom 12.68 to 12.65 by midday leaving prices 7-11 points net higher.

New Orleans Cotton Higher.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Cotton continued on the upgrade in early dealings today, advancing from 5 to 9 points at the first call.

There was an influx of orders from abroad in the opening minutes of dealings and coupled with trade and ring purchasing this brought a firm tone to trading.

March opened at 12.73, May at 12.61, July at 12.40 and Oct. at 12.04.

Flood talk said to be a factor behind the advance with many fertile cotton acres threatened by the rising waters in the upper valley.

Early weather reports said temperatures were sub-normal, particularly in the west. Heavy rains fell in the southern part of the belt overnight.

Flood news continued to engender bullish feeling during the morning as the market held 50 cents a bale above the previous closing levels. Additional rains predicted for North Texas were another factor that induced some buying.

Liverpool was sharply higher, with cables reporting buying in the English market was based almost entirely on reports from flood waters in the Mississippi valley. Bombay also moved up from 3 Indian points for futures to 10 points for spot cotton.

Loan cotton sales plans did not receive as much attention from the trade, as weather developments received most of the attenion.

Scattered selling for hedging purposes kept a minimum of contracts in the market.

Wheat Declines.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Late declines of prices carried the Chicago wheat market down a cent a bushel maximum today.

Heavy movement of wheat from Argentina acted as a weight on values. It was asserted Euronean importers had adopted a waiting attitude and would hold off from purchasing as much as possible.

At the close, wheat was 1-2 to 7-8 under yesterday's finish, May 126 1-8 1-4, July 110 1-8 1-4, corn 1 3-8 2 cents down, May 106 7-8 107; July 1.01 5-8 3-4; oats 1-2 to 3-4 off, and provisions showing 10 to 25 cents decline.

STEELS RAN AWAY FROM OTHER ISSUES IN MARKET THURSDAY

STEEL STOCKS ADVANCED FROM ONE TO AROUND FIVE POINTS TODAY

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Steels streaked across the stock market ticker tape today for gains of 1 to about 5 points at the best, but numerous other issues lacked climbing vigor and losers were plentiful at the close.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem hit 93 and 81 1-2 respectively, for the first time in more than 6 years. Many other recovery tops were established. Most of the leaders, though encountered late offerings and finished under the day's peaks. Transfers were around 2,350,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Steels ran away from the rest of the stock market today in a buying surge that lifted these issues 1 to around 5 points, many to new recovery peaks.

U. S. Steel, turned over in large blocks, hit 93 and Bethlehem touched 81, both the best levels in more than 6 years. The ticker tape frequently lagged during the feverish buying sprint but volume dwindled near the fourth hour and extreme gains were reduced substantially in many instances.

Brokers attributed the selective upturn to lessening of tension over flood and strikes and to expectations heavy industrial operations are due for a sharp upturn soon.

Bonds followed stocks on the forward tilt. Commodities were uneven.

Besides the two steel bellwethers, outstanding advances were scored by Gulf States, Crucible, National, Republic, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Ludlum, Central Foundry, American Rolling Mill, Standard Oil of N. J., Texas Corp., Barnsdall, Indian Refining, Houston Oil, Du Pont, Libby-Owens, Anchor Cap, Certain-Teed, Boeing, Deere and Distillers Corp.-Seagrams.

Utilities and rails were inclined to mark time. A fair amount of improvement was shown by General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Paramount, Douglas Aircraft, Loew's, Congoleum and Gillette.

Backward were Westinghouse, American Can, Johns-Manville, Pennsylvania, Western Union, Kennecott, Anaconda, North American.

SENATE COMMITTEE CONSIDERING PLACE FOR PARDON BOARD

AUSTIN, Jan. 27.—(AP)—A senate committee considering the proper location for the new state pardon board scheduled a second meeting today after hearing Governor Allred's arguments for maintaining the office in Austin.

A constitutional amendment stripping the governor of much of his clemency power and vesting it in a board is due to become effective next Monday but enabling legislation controlling procedure is needed. The amendment would prohibit the governor from issuing clemencies except on recommendation of the board. The chief executive however, could veto recommendations.

Sen. Gordon Burns of Huntsville, where the penitentiary is situated, introduced a bill establishing that city as the board's headquarters while Wilbourne B. Collie of Eastland proposed that the office be in Austin.

Both the Collie and Burns proposals would provide salaries of $5,000 a year each for board members and $4,000 for a parole supervisor.

OLNEY, Jan. 27.—(AP)—A head-on automobile crash in a heavy fog one mile west of here last night burned W. D. Chitwood to death, fatally injured Benton Wilson, 19, and seriously injured three other youths.

The five youths were in one automobile which burst into flames after the accident. A man whose name was not learned was alone in the other car. He was not seriously injured.

Jack Chitwood, 16, Barrett Wilson, 17 and Albert Newsome, 17, were brought to a hospital here suffering from burns and other hurts.

Another Decision Upholds Validity Social Security

BOSTON, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Federal Judge George B. Sweeney today upheld the constitutionality of the provisions of the Social Security Act which provide a tax for assistance for the aged. Judge Sweeney denied an injunction to prevent the payment of the tax by the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston.

The case was the first test of the old age provision of the act in this district.

The jurist said it was a valid exercise of the taxing power of congress.

MORE FOREIGNERS ARE BROUGHT INTO SOVIET PLOT TRIAL

FORMER RAILWAY CHIEF TELLS OF CAUSING THOUSANDS OF TRAIN WRECKS

MOSCOW, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Ivan Alexandorich Kniazeff, former Soviet Southern railway chief on trial as a confessed Trotzkyist plotter, testified today 63 persons had been killed in "thousands" of train wrecks which he organized and accused a Japanese "Mr. X" of planning to infect Russian troop trains with deadly germs.

Kniazeff twice identified "Mr. X." as a Japanese agent, one Keroshima, who he said was a transport expert in Moscow and who formerly served in London.

The witness, on trial with the commentator Karl Radek and 15 other men for a conspiracy to overthrow the Soviet regime through sabotage and even war, sprang surprise after surprise.

Confessing abjectly to some 3,500 train wrecks during 1935 and 1936, he said they had killed 63 persons and injured 164.

He identified photostatic copies of two letters which he said he received from "Mr. X" in 1935 and 1936, the first damaging documentary evidence to be introduced. The contents of the letters were not fully disclosed in court.

Confirming orders he said he had received in December of 1935 to burn military stores, Kniazeff declared:

"When I met Mr. X later he reproached me for doing nothing. He said people had to be trained to commit wrecking in wartime.

"He also told me to burn food trains and in October (presumably in 1935) Mr. X told me we might have to poison military trains with bacteria so as to infect the troops.

"I mean the cars are prepared for the troops through cleansing, drying, etc. At that time we could have infected them.

"Mr. X said war was inevitable. I understood from him it would start in 1937."

LARGE ATTENDANCE CORSICANA P. C. A. MEETING WEDNESDAY

A large attendance of stockholders and interested agriculturalists was noted at the third annual stockholders meeting of the Corsicana Production Credit Association composed of members in Navarro, Hill and Ellis counties in the auditorium of the Carnegie Library, Wednesday morning.

Reports of officers, addresses by officials and others featured the sessions.

Among those appearing on the program were C. H. Pigg, Waxahachie, chairman; G. R. Love, Corsicana, director, who gave a report on the activities of the board of directors; Fred White, Corsicana, made the report of the executive committee; A. L. Bean, Corsicana, secretary-treasurer of the association; musical numbers; short talks by a number of members; Miss Ruth McNabb, Navarro County Home Demonstration Agent; B. L. Sanders, Corsicana, secretary-treasurer of the NFLA; M. L. Jones, Houston, assistant to the vice president of the Production Credit Corporation of Houston. Mr. Jones' subject was "The PCA is Your Business."

The annual report of the association shows the financial condition is excellent. There were 331 members as compared with 239 a year ago; a total of $201,424 was loaned to members in 1936 as compared with $64,246 in 1935, and after paying all expenses the association's net earnings amounted to $1,756, for 1936 which was added to the legal reserves as a protection to the investment in the association. The reserve on Dec. 31, amounted to $6,324.

Officers of the Association are J. P. Ballew, Midlothian, president; G. R. Love, Corsicana, vice president; and A. L. Bean, Corsicana, secretary-treasurer.

Directors are Mr. Ballew, W. B. Coates, Kerens; Mr. Love and Fred White, all of Corsicana.

EXPANDED PUBLIC OWNERSHIP POWER BUSINESS SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt shaped a tentative course today toward expanded public ownershjp of electric power by breaking off negotiations to pool government and private power in the Tennessee Valley.

He took the action, he said, because 19 utility companies obtained a "sweeping preliminary injunction" against the Tennessee Valley authority.

Explaining this precluded a transmission agreement, he wrote 14 government and private conferees yesterday that meetings would be discontinued.

The Commonwealth and Southern Utility Company protested the action. Wendell Willkie, its president, said in New York:

"I am unable to understand how the temporary injunction precludes either the pooling of transmission, the studying of the various problems arising out of the TVA operations or the working out of a permanent solution.

"The dismissal of the law suit or the dissolution of the injunction would place our property at the mercy of the uncontrolled discretion of the TVA."

Mr. Roosevelt said at a press conference the decision to end the power pool conferences would not affect negotiations to renew the Commonwealth and Southern contract to buy government power from the Tennessee Valley authority. The contract expires next Wednesday.

RED CROSS NOW SEEKS FIVE TIMES ORIGINAL QUOTA FROM CORSICANA, NAVARRO COUNTY

Again the American Red Cross admits that it greatly underestimated the flood relief needs and has again raised the quotas of the various chapters throughout the nation—this time calling for five times the original quotas, which would make the Navarro county quota aproximately $1,500. And County Chairman J. N. Garlity believes this quota will be reached, for at noon Wednesday nearly $1,000 of that amount had been received and many who are well able and no doubt willing to contribute had not handed in their contributions.

Latest news from the flood areas is that all agencies are making preparations for the greatest flood in the history of the nation along fore than 1000 miles of the great Mississippi river as the mighty Ohio begins pouring 3,000,000 cubic feet of water per second into the already swollen Old Man River. Army engineers declare the new protective leeves constructed after the 1927 disastrous Mississippi floods will take care of only 2,400,000 cubic feet per second. Plans are being perfected for the evacuation of 500,000 people along the river and this will entail vast additional relief.

The Red Cross never calls for money or assistance that is not needed and the last call means that there is an urgent need for the full amount asked. Corsicana and Navarro county will no doubt respond to the new call quickly. Kerens and Rice have sent in lists and every towns and community in the county is urged to do likewise.

The latest call received by Chairman Garlity follows:

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 26, 1937.

Jim Nick Garlity, chairman Navarro County Chapter American Red Cross.

Flood suffering has already reached unprecedented proportions with relief needs steadily mounting. Under these conditions it is impossible now to name a final goal for funds as only the limit of Red Cross assistance must be the maximum generosity of the American people. Every possible member of National Red Cross staff now assigned to field for relief duty.

I call upon all chapters to assume full initiative of their respective jurisdictions and mobilize every community resource of personnel and organization to raise promptly the largest possible amount. Report daily amount raised. For your information in view of present known needs your goal should be not less than five times the quota originally assigned you.

Cary T. Grayson.

TEXANS PROVIDING RED CROSS RELIEF FUNDS IN BIG WAY

APPEAL BRINGS SUBSCRIPTIONS MANY TIMES LARGER THAN QUOTAS

DALLAS, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Texans dug deep into their pockets today to help provide relief for residents of the flood-stricken Mississippi and Ohio basins.

Contributions poured in at cities, towns and hamlets in answer to Red Cross appeals for funds. From all parts of the state came reports of over-subscribed quotas.

San Angelo, swept by a destructive flood last September, contributed more than $1,100 to surpass a quota twice doubled. Galveston had raised nearly $1,900.

Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, democratic national committeewoman from Texas, donated $1,000 at Corpus Christi.

The so-called "dust bowl" in the Panhandle which had suffered heavy damage in recent years due to lack of water contributed heavily to the fund. Amarillo had tripled and Hutchinson county had doubled their quotas. Lubbock had more than doubled its quota.

Funds poured in at Houston and San Antonio. Dallas' original quota was raised from $10,400 to $52,000. Benefits were arranged to help raise funds.

Gregg county donated nearly four times the amount asked.

At San Antonio the army answered second and third calls for aid to flood refugees. Bed sacks, blankets, quilts and stoves were sent to the stricken areas.

Theaters Will Help.

DALLAS, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Motion picture theaters in at least eight southwestern cities served by the Interstate Circuit will be utilized to raise money for relief of flood sufferers in the Midwest.

Karl Hoblitzelle, president of the Interstate chain, announced today that benefit shows would be held this week in Interstate motion picture houses at Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Galveston, El Paso, Austin, Albuquerque and probably Fort Worth.

Passes Million Dollar Mark.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The Red Cross passed the $1,000,000 mark today in its drive to raise $10,000,000 for flood sufferers.

Included in the $1,222,182 reported at noon was a $25,000 contribution from Adolphus Busch, St. Louis president of the Anheuser-Busch company, who also made a contribution in the mid-west division.

Other gifts included $10,000 from Edward S. Harkness, of New York and $1,000 from Eddie Cantor.

Portsmouth, Ohio, severely hit by the present flood, contributed $5,500.

spots rather than from the entire 1,000-mile stretch between Cairo and New Orleans.

Ready for Any Emergency.

Generals of three army corps areas reported they were ready for any emergency affecting all or a portion of the 500,000 persons along the river.

Engineers turned attention primarily to the stretch between Cairo and Memphis, which will receive the peak of the flood during next week. It was stated that so far the major levees are holding well.

Engineers estimated the descent of the Ohio river's all-time high crests will bring a 62-foot peak at Cairo about Feb. 2, with Memphis getting a record peak of 55 feet four or five days later.

The historic river city, Cairo, about 120 miles northeast of here, caught as it in a vice where the Ohio and Mississippi rivers meet, held a five foot lead on the flood today while water piled into a safety gap downstream, built for just such a time.

Two Cities Under Water.

Two of Cairo's neighbor cities were completely under water and more than 8,000 persons in this area evacuated.

The city completed its 2 1-2 mile-long bulkhead just in time. Backwaters north of Cairo halted traffic on the last rail outlet—the Illinois Central—over which came virtually all of the sand and dirt used in filling the wooden framework fastened to the concrete levee. A single highway still remained open.

Below the confluence of the two mighty rivers 20,000 refugees were sheltered in southeastern Missouri emergency camps. Many of them watched the rising water spread over their farmland in a vast spillway flooded by government engineers to relieve the pressure at Cairo.

High water rose steadily in the 131,000-acre flood basin.

All but 110 of the 5,000 who lived in the spillway area were out safely, and some brought exciting tales of rescue.

Half the population was gone from New Madrid, at the lower tip of the floodway.

Children Apparently Happy.

At Sikestown, one concentration point for the refugees, children, ignorant of the tragedy around them, raced through rows of cots and piles of straw, laughing. Yellow identification cards fluttered from them.

Meanwhile the vanguard of 50,000 refugees poured into Memphis while the Red Cross continued with the evacuation of other hundreds in areas already inundated or in obvious danger.

At New Orleans, engineers hoped a portion of the flood waters would be diverted into Lake Ponchartrain.

A spectacular battle was waged a few miles north of Tiptonville, Tenn., where the Mississippi threatened to blast a new channel across a snaky bend.

Warn Arkansas Lowlanders.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 28.—Two national guard planes dropped messages over Arkansas' flood danger zone today warning lowlanders to evacuate more than 100,000 acres threatened with inundation by a crumbling Mississippi river levee at Mellwood.

Thousands poured out of the imperiled section under direction of regular army forces which assumed supreme command in the eastern Arkansas territory bordering the big stream.

Preparations were rushed for dealing with a possibly greater emergency than the state already faces in its northeastern tier of counties inundated more than a week by swollen lakes and Mississippi river tributaries.

Flood and weather deaths stood at 25 today. Albert Evans, Red Cross disaster relief director, estimated 28,000 refugees already in concentration camps with upwards of 75,000 expected by this week-end.

Memphis Accepts Challenge.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 28.—(AP)—This city of refuge accepted the challenge of the flooded Mississippi river today.

Mayor Watkins Overton, armed with near-dictatorial power, led Memphis in its effort to given haven to more than 50,000 victims. The city commission granted him virtually unlimted authorty to spend money and commandeer supplies.

Already 12,000 sufferers have jammed the city—the vanguard of 38,000 more expected if the lifeline of levees crumbles beneath the pressure of unprecedented flood waters.

In the city's fair grounds, 7,000 persons crowded into accommodations arranged for 5,000. Others slept in the Municipal auditorium. A special post office was installed to handle mail for the refugees. A telephone exchange and information bureau went into action to answer thousands of queries.

FLOODS

camps behind the basin's setback levee—and wondered if it would hold. The answer was expected tonight.

While the Ohio showed signs of loosening its grip upon a wide area between Pittsburgh and Cairo, Ill., it became apparent the full story of the havoc will not be known for days.

Louisville, once gay derby town now desolate, buried its dead in trenches as the flood waters began to subside. The number of lives lost was a matter of conjecture. Mayor Neville Miller said there were 200 dead after the city's health officer admitted the bodies of 130 victims had been recovered.

Tension eased as the river started to recede, although sickness was increasing. Electricity was shut off, water rationed and sanitation problems increased hourly.

Disease Threats Cincinnati.

The threat of disease lingered in Cincinnati but there was hope and good cheer as rehabilitation efforts were begun. Water flowed into the mains from artesian wells after a famine but the supply was still short of the city's needs.

The war department was advised its forces were ready on a moment's notice to evacuate by land and water residents of areas threatened with inundation when the flood crest pours down the Mississippi next week.

Reassuring words came, however, from engineers who said the river's billion dollar dike system from Cairo to the Gulf showed no signs of weakness and hope was expressed wholesale evacuation would be unnecessary.

"It appears likely that flood waters will pass down the valley without causing inundation," was the message Maj. Gen E. M. Markham, chief of U. S. Engineers, issued through Lieut. Col. Eugene Reybold, district chief at Memphis.

The immediate battleground in the struggle to control the rain-swollen torrent in its surge to the Gulf of Mexico centered around Cairo, nestling on a point at the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

During the night, Mound City, Ill., surrendered to the flood waters as a back levee collapsed and put 875 to flight.

Engineers said this was the only unfavorable development in the last 24 hours, and divided their efforts between directing completion of the second line of defense on the Birds Point-New Madrid floodway and saving Tiptonville from a new threat.

The 1,300 residents of Tiptonville disregarded a warning to flee as the Mississippi threatened to inundate the Tennessee city.

Crest Dates Predicted.

Safe so far from being engulfed, Cairo, bulwarked behind a 60-foot seawall, expressed confidence it would win its battle.

As the flood waters poured into the vast $21,000,000 spillway just below Cairo, engineers said they probably would reach the top of the basin tonight. Then they will await the crest of the flood, with expectations it will hit Cairo about Feb. 2, and Memphis four days later.

Problems of restoration replaced problems of life saving in Evansville, and other southern Indiana cities. Evansville estimated its damage at $16,875,000. Losses in other cities wrecked by flood waters were incalculable at present.

Smiles greeted hip-booted Gov. Martin Davey of Ohio as he personally inspected the bedraggled city of Portsmouth where 1,000 persons still were marooned in flooded buildings and refused to leave. On hilltops, between 30,000, and 35,000 lived in makeshift dwellings.

The Southern states of Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi counted more than 150,000 homeless and 34 dead. The vanguard of 50,000 refugees poured into Memphis while the evacuation of hundreds more continued.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, Jan. 28.—(AP)—President Rafael Trujillo today sent $20,000 to President Roosevelt as a personal contribution for the relief of United States flood sufferers.

Rain Is Forecast.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The weather bureau forecast rain for tonight over most of the Ohio river watershed but added it would not affect flood conditions.

The bureau said the rain would turn to snow tomorrow.

135,000 Are Isolated.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Approximately 35,000 citizens of flood-stricken west Evansville were practically isolated from the rest of the city today when the only remaining direct link—the Maryland Street bridge over Pigeon Creek—was closed by military order. Water was running several feet deep over the bridge.

Access to the community still was open, however, through a circuitous route.

Drinking water, food and other necessities still were being supplied, relief authorities said.

Flood-stunned Southern Indians took heart when the Ohio reluctantly retreated at other points.

Jack Benny finds one of the members of the Greek chorus in "College Holiday," the madcap comedy which comes to the Palace theatre on Saturday night at 11:30, also Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, exceptionally easy to look at. LOUISVILLE over a radio network. He said there were 200 dead, after Chief Health Officer Dr. Hugh R. Leavell admitted that 30 dead had been taken from homes along the fringe of the west end section, from homes that were not submerged entirely.

These, he said, were victims of heart failure, pneumonia and exposure, sufferers who died just out of reach of the waters, but beyond the helping hands of a tremendous relief drive in which all parts of the nation joined hands with funds and supplies. Cities from as far south as Phoenix, Ariz., and as far east as Boston, Mass., have provided by air hundreds of police officers to join the 600 federal troops aiding local authorities.

Relief Work at High Speed.

Today, as the flood waters subsided and, despite predictions of light rain, promised to keep going down at the rate of a foot or so a day for the next week, every power at the city's command was thrown into the fight to prevent more suffering.

Evidently fearing the effect of the news might have on an already harassed population, authorities asserted only a few had died, though bodies could be seen piled in rough boxes in boats and trucks heading for the trenches of the unidentified dead on the hills of the Highlands.

The cleanup in what is left above water of the low west end accounted in that section for the last of the 20,000 originally marooned there. Many chose still to stay on and take their chances of receiving food and water by boat.

Boats in Service.

Fleets of rowboats, skiffs, coast guard boats from the Great Lakes, New York and New England, turned to the south central section of the city, where it is estimated 50,000 of the 330,000 original population live in neat, better class two and three story brick dwellings and small apartment houses.

Once the river started going down last night, after rising to a point over eleven feet higher than the previous flood top reported in 1884, tension eased all through the city. This despite the fact that dread of new deaths hung over all, sickness, water and sanitation problems were increasing by the hour.

When news sped over the city last night—"She's going down! She's going down!"—drawn faces relaxed, everyone rested for a moment, talked excitedly, and men who had not slept for days went home to shave and to bed, if they still possessed a bed above water. You could see the relief everywhere, Louisville knew the worst at last, and terrible though it was, it was better than uncertainty.

PRISON

decrepit 135-year old state prison here.

"This place was a horror hole even under normal conditions," said Gov. A. B. Chandler, after a tour of inspection. "How terrible it was during those three nights will never be known."

Without heat or water, a thousand convicts fought and screamed in blocks A. and B. Heavy steel doors were torn from their concrete moorings. Barred windows were battered out of shape.

Then, they were evacuated three days ago along with 1,500 other prisoners. Age lined even the grim-faced youthful convicts when they were removed from the now permanently abandoned prison.

Prison officials, national guard officers and newspapermen fished yesterday in the forbidding water and debris of battered cots, ripped pillows and smashed pans—seeking the bodies of a dozen or more missing.

"These cells are the messiest and most horrible sight I have ever laid eyes on," declared Governor Chandler as the officials gave up their search, waiting for waters to recede in the frowning blocks which held English prisoners during the war of 1812.

"How we got this place evacuated without wholesale fatalities is a miracle. If I hadn't seen this place I would have laughed at anyone who said such a sight existed anywhere at any time," Chandler declared.

Physicians blamed the three days and nights of terror as flood waters slowly rose in the ancient prison for sudden insanity which seized one of the evacuated convicts. Howling and screaming, he was led away to an asylum.

One evacuated prisoner told how he and a group of companions had threatened to kill another group that planned to set fire to the blocks in the hope of forcing a quick evacuation and making escape probable.

"We swung bars over their heads and told them we would kill them dead," he said. Burned mattresses indicated several attempts had been made to start a general conflagration.

The prisoners lived today in a temporary concentration camp near this state capital's city limits—a virtual paradise by comparison.

to be used for boiling drinking water.

Eighth corps area officers were ready for active relief duty in the lower Mississippi Valley if called. Col. H. W. Fleet, commander of the Ninth infantry, left for a reconnaissance trip in the Arkansas flood zone.

Red Cross quotas were oversubscribed at many points. Theaters and various organizations arranged benefit performances to swell the fund. Dallas had raised $13,600, Bexar county $7,800, Galveston $3,447, Wichita $3,728, Taylor $1,278, Beaumont $4,386, Austin $2,400. Corsicana more than $1,000, Shelby county $652 and Bell County $304.

Gregg county subscribed more than $3,000 and Longview merchants donated enough clothing for 1,000 persons. The American Legion placed tubs on streets to receive donations. A group of Legionnaires planned to distribute clothing and cash in Eastern Arkansas Sunday.

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Texas house of representatives by resolution today requested Gov. James V. Allred to ask Texans to give one-fourth of their earnings next Monday to aid flood sufferers.

The resolution by Rep. F. E. Knetsch of Seguin asserted that the people of Texas should be grateful the elements had been kind to them and sympathetic with citizens of less fortunate sister states.

Gov. Allred previously had asked liberal contributions for food relief. He also had tendered national guard troops if needed.

Nearly 3 Million Raised

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Red Cross reported today flood relief contributions totaling $2,831,361. It is seeking $10,000,000.

PLANS RUSHED FOR FULL ISOLATION OF WAR-INFECTED SPAIN

By the Associated Press

International negotiators, spurred by Italo-German promises to co-operate, rushed plans today to isolate war-infected Spain.

A neutral blockade of Spanish coasts, to halt spread of the war fever to the rest of Europe, was planned by the London non-intervention committee, using fleets of four great powers concentrated in the Mediterranean.

Details of the plan, considered while the Madrid government forces were reporting new strategic victories, still were indefinite.

To bolster the coastal blockade of foreign arms and men, the non-intervention subcommittee hoped posting of neutral observers on the Hispano-Portuguese border would be permitted, but Portugal expressed uncompromising opposition.

Warships of the four great powers were in readiness to patrol Spanish ports, the German and Italians probably guarding socialist coastal territory, the French vessels to be stationed in fascist waters. Britain's sea-dogs would assume the role of umpire. Soviet Russian ships were expected to join the international patrol later.

Government General Jose Miaja, assuming the Madrid offensive, saw his men sweep to a dawn victory, winning West Park Hill dominating the shell-torn University City sector of Madrid's northwestern outskirts.
